DOUBLE TROUBLE — Jeffersonville firemen fought this fire at the John Blair residence, Garringer-Edgefield Road in Jefferson Township, at 2:50 p.m. Saturday. At 3:09 p.m. Sunday, firemen were back. The house had re-ignited and this time it was allowed to burn to the ground. Jeffersonville firefighters were assisted the first time by the Sunday. Blair had insurance.

Washington C.H. Fire Department who brought extra water, and the Navarre, Ohio, rescue squad which spotted the smoke while returning from Xenia. The owner of the residence was not at home at the time of the blaze nor were any of his family. The house and all its contents were destroyed in Saturday's fire; only the frame remained until Sunday. Blair had insurance.

'Political dirt' hunt widespread

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret task force to compile intelligence reports on President Nixon's political enemies was set up inside the Internal Revenue Service within months of Nixon's becoming president, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker said today.

Weicker presented a documentary history of the special unit to three Senate subcommittees. He also disclosed a flood of new details on how, he said, the White House used government agencies to thwart its political opponents in the United States and overseas.

Weicker said that by the time the special unit was dismantled in August 1973 it had amassed intelligence files on 10,000 American taxpayers which contained 12,000 classified documents, the Connecticut Republican said.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, produced other documents which he said showed the IRS had been used repeatedly by that time to harass political opponents of the administration.

"When that situation exists in the country obviously something smells," Weicker said. "It is a provision of the American constitutional system."

Weicker read non-stop from a huge pile of documents, many of them supplied by former White House counsel John W. Dean III, in a session which was virtually a repeat of the Watergate hearings of last summer.

Earlier, Weicker said detective Anthony T. Ulasewicz probed the private lives of more than a dozen senators and other political figures in 50 separate investigations during Nixon's first term.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, said he has obtained White House files showing the full scope of the activities of the former New York City detective, who told the panel last summer his primary mission at the White House was to probe allegations of "political dirt."

The Connecticut Republican said he also has uncovered White House

memos showing the "improper and perhaps illegal use of actual tax return information, both of individuals and of organizations."

He was to testify on his findings today at a hearing convened by three Senate subcommittees investigating the extent of political spying by the federal government.

Weicker said that among the records he has obtained are memos showing the White House obtained from the Internal Revenue Service "sensitive case files" on a large number of individuals, including several prominent entertainers.

The list includes the names of Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr., both of whom endorsed the President's 1972 re-election campaign.

It also includes the name of California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Others on the list provided by Weicker are comedian Jerry Lewis, actors Peter Lawford, Richard Boone and Fred MacMurray and comedienne Lucille Ball and her husband, Gary Morton.

Weicker said he also has documents to confirm that the White House used IRS tax data "to protect friends of the White House, such as evangelist Billy Graham and actor John Wayne."

The Ulasewicz investigations, Weicker said, included background probes into the lives of the most politically prominent Democrats who contended for their party's 1972 presidential nomination.

These include Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay; and Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Documents released at the time of the Watergate hearings showed Ulasewicz, working out of the White House but on the payroll of Herbert Kalmbach, then President Nixon's personal lawyer, conducted his own investigation of Kennedy's role in the drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The memos indicated he discovered no useful information.

Weicker said the list of Ulasewicz investigative targets also included at least two Republicans, Sens. George Murphy, R-Calif.; who was defeated for re-election, and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., an opponent of Nixon administration war policies in Vietnam.

Other Senators identified by Weicker as having been investigated by Ulasewicz are William Proxmire, D-Wis.; John Tunney, D-Calif.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Albert Gore, D-Tenn.; and Joseph Tydings, D-Md. Both Gore and Tydings were defeated for re-election.

IRS may probe fraud on Nixon taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Internal Revenue Service has indicated that the IRS still may be investigating whether the preparation of President Nixon's tax returns for recent years involved fraud.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander confirmed Sunday a White House statement that no basis had been found for bringing such a charge against Nixon personally.

But when asked if charges might be leveled against those who helped prepare the tax returns, Alexander responded during a televised interview: "I can't comment on what action the IRS and others may be or may not be taking with respect to others."

The White House announced last week that President Nixon would pay the full IRS-stipulated total of $432,787.13 in unpaid taxes, plus interest, for the years 1969-72.

In Los Angeles, Nixon's tax lawyer Arthur Blech said that the President

Claim world leaders stand behind Nixon Foreign policy injected into Watergate defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has elevated foreign policy into a major part of its Watergate defense, maintaining that Nixon's continuation in office is considered essential by most world leaders.

The crucial role played by Nixon in insuring international progress was portrayed by high White House officials following the President's return from Paris Sunday.

Alexander M. Haig Jr., Nixon's chief of staff, said the weekend in Paris for a memorial service honoring the late French President Georges Pompidou was encouraging in several ways.

"It was very evident that European leaders and world leaders with whom the President met continued to look to the United States and President Nixon as an essential factor in efforts to develop a structure for a stable international environment," he said.

Other officials told reporters on Nixon's plane during the return from Paris that the world leaders clearly want the President to stay in office because they feel a rapport with him.

These officials said many other international leaders also have domestic problems, although of a different character.

Because of this empathy, Nixon is admired for what they believe is his courage, and is deeply respected because they say he continues to function effectively in world matters.

The meetings described by Haig involved the chiefs of state of Japan, France, the Soviet Union, West Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Italy.

Before returning to the United States and an overnight stay at his Camp David, Md., retreat, Nixon held two important meetings Sunday in Paris.

The first was a two-hour breakfast with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, at which the Nixon's June trip to Moscow was discussed.

Haig said the meeting "confirmed that both sides have set the preliminary stages for finite and real accomplishments," during the June summit.

Both sides, he said, "are very optimistic...there will be positive results in the areas of trade, technological exchanges, and certainly" in nuclear arms limitations.

But Haig refused to provide details, saying it was too early to discuss such matters in depth.

The other Sunday meeting was with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. According to Haig, the one-hour session with Tanaka dealt with the Japanese relationship to the United States and the Atlantic Alliance.

Controversy erupts over housing for tornado victims

By The Associated Press

A controversy developed Sunday in the Cincinnati area over government mobile homes promised last week for tornado victims by U.S. Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio.

Residents of South Road in suburban Bridgetown said they could get no information from either the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration or the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department.

John Jodice, one of about 100 residents who lost homes to last Wednesday's tornadoes, said "Clancy promised those trailers last week. What's the deal?"

Clancy could not be reached Sunday. A Clancy aide had said 1,000 mobile units were available at Richmond, Ky.

Jodice said most residents wanted to stay on their property to protect against looters. He said some had already rented trailers "but the cost is too high."

Green Township trustees, meanwhile, prepared a resolution for Monday that would permit trailers in the township for a year.

The FDAA regional headquarters in Dayton reported it "is not our decision. It's HUD's."

A spokesman at the HUD regional office in Cincinnati said "no decision has been made. It is made by FDAA."

At Richmond, Ky., Leo McGinn, FDAA officer who said he knew little about a stockpile of mobile homes, blamed local HUD authorities.

He said FDAA is responsible for getting mobile homes into a disaster region and for paying for utility hookups. But state and local governments have the responsibility for preparing the sites.

"Any delay in getting mobile homes onto the site is not because the homes aren't available but because the sites aren't prepared," he said.

The FDAA prefers use of existing housing and mobile homes are "last priority," McGinn said.

Push improved twister warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weathermen running America's tornado warning system hope some planned improvements will help save more lives in future disasters.

For example, a new highspeed electronic system "that seeks to take full advantage of computers, modern display technology and modern communications technology" is being developed, says a top federal weather agency official.

The weathermen hope to begin deploying this in about 18 months to offices around the country so the whole system can react faster and more effectively to quickly developing weather situations such as tornadoes.

"It will be much more efficient than our present system and will enable a much quicker response" especially in cases such as the one last week when many tornadoes erupted at virtually the same time, an official said.

If such a modernized approach had been available last week, "it could have lengthened warning times five to 30 minutes — and in tornadoes, that could be important," another official said.

"Most natural disasters that kill people happen fast — you can't consume that time by inefficient methods which eat up the time for warning," he said.

The weathermen also are working toward gaining new satellites that could upgrade the experts' ability to forecast "and enable us to keep a continuous watch on developing weather," said the official.

Improvements also are being sought for the warning network's local-use radar system. "In what we call our local-use radar, we are using radar sets that go back to World War II. They are obsolete sets, they need replacement," the official said.

More than 300 persons died, thousands were hurt and property damage was measured in the millions of dollars as some 90 twisters tore through parts of a dozen states last week.

Robert M. White, head of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and other top federal officials visited Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio last Friday to look at some of the damage and to talk with local weather agency officials. White said his initial assessment is that the warning system "performed very well, the warnings were in time" for quite a few people.

Final report pending 'Justifiable homicide' ruled in WCH shooting

The fatal shooting of an escapee from Franklin County by Washington C.H. Patrolman Mike Stritenberger March 27 has been ruled "justifiable homicide" by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

A hearing to determine the facts surrounding the shooting was held Saturday in the City Office Building with Dr. Gebhart presiding.

After hearing testimony from six witnesses and receiving an oral report of the results of the autopsy, the coroner ruled that the fatal shot was fired under justifiable circumstances and that the escapee, Doyle Manning, 35, of Indianapolis, Ind., had in fact died of the bullet wound.

Testifying at the hearing were Franklin County Sheriff's Deputy Milton Cramer; Washington C.H. Police officers Larry Walker, William Robinson, and Stritenberger, dispatcher Joe Downs, and Sheriff's Deputy William Crooks.

MANNING and three others had overpowered Cramer while enroute to Columbus from the Lucasville penitentiary and had fled in stolen automobiles. They were sighted by Sgt. Crooks on Old Chillicothe Road and he began pursuit.

One car crashed outside Washington C.H. and its two occupants were taken into custody by Crooks.

The other car continued into Washington C.H. Officers Stritenberger and Robinson spotted the car near the downtown area and gave chase. The auto stopped in an alley and the two escapees fled on foot, followed by Stritenberger.

President signs wage measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a bill that will bring the minimum wage to $2.30 an hour for millions of American workers by Jan. 1, 1978.

Nixon signed the measure at his desk in the Oval Office, with Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan seated alongside.

In a White House statement, Nixon said, "Although I have some reservations about portions of this legislation, its basic purpose — to increase the minimum wage for working men and women of this country — deserves the support of all Americans."

Central State hit by blaze

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Fire raced through a floor of the student union building at tornado-torn Central State University here today before being extinguished, the Ohio National Guard reported.

A guard spokesman said there were no reported injuries from the blaze, which raged for about 40 minutes.

The spokesman said the fire broke out about 10 a.m. and the 25-30 persons in the building were immediately evacuated.

There were reports from firemen at the scene the blaze was touched off by a malfunctioning heater on the building's second floor. They said the fire was confined to the second floor.

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — The firm which built the Arrowhead section of Xenia, where a tornado touched down Wednesday and destroyed some 300 homes, announced today it will rebuild those houses.

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Loyal Order of Moose in Ohio have issued a call for non-perishable foods and infant supplies like cribs and blankets for victims of last week's tornado here.

The supplies will be distributed from the lodge's warehouse near Xenia.

Pilgrimage made to air crash site

CHEDDAR, England (AP) — A sad pilgrimage to a Swiss mountainside sets out today from Cheddar, Axbridge and five other villages in the northern part of Somerset County.

The group includes 21 of the 40 survivors of the air crash last April 10 that left gaping holes in many Somerset families. The other 125 pilgrims lost mothers, wives or close friends when the chartered prop-jet overshot Basel airport in a blizzard and plowed into the mountain.

A total of 108 people died in the crash of the charter flight organized for a day of shopping in Basel.

Some of the pilgrims are going out to pray, others to see the mountain in spring so they can forget it in flames. Some plan to take the bus trip around Lake Lucerne that they didn't get to take the last time.

"I'm a bit worried about some of the survivors going on the trip," said

Margaret Tucker, secretary of the group that organized the memorial pilgrimage.

"People are getting very uptight as the anniversary date approaches. Most of them would never fly again. But not all."

Most of the group are making the trip by bus or train. A few are going by plane. Their destination is Hochwald, in the Jura mountains of Switzerland, where a monument to those who died in the crash will be unveiled on Wednesday.

The monument was built by donations from Britain and Switzerland on the mountainside farm belonging to the parents of Eric Voegti, the 14-year-old boy who led the survivors down the blizzard-lashed slope after the crash.

"I'm not looking forward to the trip," said the Rev. Donald Denman, vicar of Cheddar, who will read the invocation. "I can't forget all those bodies laid out in that gymnasium. Some could only be identified by their wedding rings. For others, we had to wait until fingerprints were taken off the walls of their houses."

Lordstown strike comes to end

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Local 1714 returned to work Sunday night ending a three-day walkout at the Fisher Body fabricating plant here.

The 2,800 members ratified the new contract in a vote taken Sunday afternoon.

Terms of the agreement were not immediately available. George Metcalf, director of personnel at the Fisher Body plant, said the union made progress in seniority and working situations, "but I am not in a position now to disclose the details."

The strike forced the closing of the adjacent Vega assembly and truck assembly plants, affecting 5,000 more workers.

A spokesman for General Motors said that the workers at the Vega plant will not return to work today, because there is no backlog of sheet metal for the Vega operation. However, the spokesman said the workers at the truck plant will return to the job today.

Aussie airline co-founder dies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Sir Hudson Fysh, co-founder of Australia's international airline, Qantas, has died at the age of 79, a Qantas spokesman announced today.

The spokesman said Fysh died Saturday. The cause of death was not announced.

Fysh was managing director of the company from 1923 until 1955 and chairman from 1947 until 1966, when he retired.

State park equipment ready for Xenia use

Sixty pieces of heavy equipment have been moved to Cowan Lake State Park from other Ohio state parks and state forests for use in cleaning up tornado damage in the Xenia area, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reported today.

Some of the equipment was taken to the Central State University campus near Xenia to be used in clean up efforts there.

The remaining equipment will remain at Cowan Lake, about 20 miles south of Xenia, until officials in charge of cleaning up the city determine where they need it, said Rod Cooper, chief of DNR's division of parks and recreation.

The equipment includes dual-axle dump trucks, heavy-duty loaders, bulldozers, a crane, fuel trucks and other dump trucks.

"Making this equipment and its operators available is just part of the assistance the Department of Natural Resources is offering to the tornado-ravaged residents of Xenia," Cooper said.

About two dozen uniformed game protectors and wildlife law enforcement officers, some of whom were already in Xenia when the tornado hit Wednesday because the wildlife division district office is there, worked through the night to assist local law officers in security and patrol.

BEFORE the wildlife officers were sent home early Thursday for rest, 75 uniformed state park rangers moved in to assist in directing traffic and providing security for banks and public buildings that were still standing.

The park rangers included 63 enrolled in an eight-week ranger training school nearing completion at DNR's Lake Hope Environmental Resource Center in Zaleski State Forest.

Another 45 uniformed park rangers went to work in Xenia Friday morning to help guard against looting and to do other security work.

The state parks employees have set up a headquarters at Cowan Lake State Park, and are using 14 park cabins as housing.

The wildlife office in Xenia was not damaged but the office's two-way radio base station was knocked off

EDWARD NIXON COMES TO COURT — President Nixon's brother, Edward, right, arrives at federal court in New York with an unidentified lawyer to testify in the Mitchell-Stans trial. He testified he told financier Robert Vesco a $200,000 contribution to his brother's 1972 campaign should be made in cash. The government has contended former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans specified the contribution should be in cash. Stans and former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell are accused of trading their influence for the contribution.

Boyle jury hears details of plot

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The hired killers of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski have been identified and the source of their payoff allegedly traced to the union treasury. The prosecution is now preparing to turn its efforts to link former United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle to the assassination plot of his union rival.

The 72-year-old Boyle is accused of three counts of murder in the Dec. 31, 1969, slayings of Yablonski, his wife and daughter as they slept in their rural Clarksville home in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague last week called 46 witnesses, including three confessed participants in the plot. Four other persons who have either been convicted or pleaded guilty to murder were brought into the courtroom and identified.

The prosecution alleges that during a meeting in mid-1969 Boyle ordered Yablonski killed and authorized $20,000 in union funds to pay the assassins. Boyle steadfastly denies this.

William J. Turnblazer, former president of the UMW's District 19 which includes Kentucky and Tennessee, is one of those reportedly present at that meeting in Boyle's Washington, D.C., office. Turnblazer is expected to testify possibly late today or Tuesday.

Turnblazer, 52, a Middlesboro, Ky., lawyer, pleaded guilty last September to charges of violating Yablonski's civil rights in connection with the killings.

In statements given to the FBI and Pennsylvania state police Turnblazer is quoted as saying that he met in June, 1969 with Boyle and Albert Pass, 52,

Middlesboro, former secretary-treasurer of UMW District 19 and also an international board member from Alabama's District 20.

The meeting was held shortly after Yablonski, then a UMW vice president, announced his candidacy to oppose Boyle. And it was then, according to Turnblazer's statement, that the murder plot was hatched.

Yablonski lost his bitter battle by a 2-to-1 vote on Dec. 9, 1969. Three weeks later he was slain.

Arnold R. Miller, now UMW president, testified last week that Yablonski never conceded the election. Miller reported that he had called him at his Clarksville home and related a conversation he had with him the day after the election.

"He (Yablonski) said he was going to continue to fight," Miller said. "He said he was going to ask that ballots be impounded and that he was going to go to court."

Miller said that on Dec. 14, 1969, he met with Yablonski and many of his supporters in West Virginia and "he reaffirmed his position that he was going to continue his efforts to overturn the election."

Miller said that the action Yablonski began culminated in May, 1972, when a federal judge set aside the election on grounds of fraud.

Miller said he became the candidate against Boyle and defeated him in December, 1972.

Opinion And Comment

A two-edged 'water diet'

Americans seem to have an insatiable appetite for diets. Sometimes it seems that the more gimmicky and bizarre a newly touted diet is, the greater the likelihood of its being given a whirl by people obsessed with losing weight.

No sooner has it been given out that, say, prune juice and egg yolk are the magic formula for slimness, than thousands stock up on these items and consume them with fanatical zeal - until the next fad comes along.

THESE DAYS... by John Chamberlain

Could Billie Jean do it?

So the girls want to play Little League baseball. They have been winning the court decisions necessary to gain that right. But, as Lyndon Johnson used to say, I doubt that this particular dog will hunt.

Sooner or later the learned judges who want to abolish sex discrimination will have to refine their opinions of what constitutes a contact sport. As a ball fan who is also a parent, I have been through the mill of Little League baseball. Seven years of it, in fact. As a coach's helper I have watched some fairly tough operators try to instill the spirit of aggressive play in young fry.

My own memories go back to the time when Ty Cobb was rampaging through the American League, coming into second base with his spikes flashing. Cobb was brutal but legitimate; his spirit has been reincarnated today in the figure of the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose.

Bud Harrelson, the New York Mets' shortstop, could tell the little girls plenty about the difficulty of sidestepping body contact at second with a Pete Rose barreling into you in the required act of trying to break up a double play.

Somehow I cannot see a female catcher blocking home plate, and I doubt that even Billie Jean King would want to risk being plunked in the ribs with a swift tag at third base. Baseball is contact, and it cannot be correctly taught except as a contact sport.

DOES IT MAKE ME a male chauvinist pig to suggest that girls lack a future in hard ball?

If I remember correctly, Alice Marble, who once ruled the roost in women's tennis, liked to go up to the Polo Grounds in New York City and shag flies during Giant practice.

Alice was a tough cookie, and I have no doubt that she had a good batting eye. But I remember those St. Louis pitchers who tried to commit mayhem on the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson along the first base line. The race prejudice against Robinson was ugly. But the art of contesting a base path without seeming to contest it long antedated the appearance of black players in the major leagues.

The Little Leaguer, if he is to go

These ruminations are prompted by a cautionary piece in the Journal of the American Medical Association about the so-called water diet. The publication expresses doubt as to the diet's efficacy, and at the same time notes that it may do harm to middle-aged dieters.

The diet in question involves cutting down on carbohydrates and drinking at least eight glasses of water daily. The AMA says tests show that following this regimen cuts weight, all right, but only temporarily. That questionable benefit is outweighed by another effect, an immediate rise in blood cholesterol levels.

The role of cholesterol in heart disease remains controversial, but a diet that increases this substance in the blood must be suspect. As the AMA Journal notes, "one must consider the potential effects of the prolonged or repetitive use of this diet by middle-aged persons who may have coronary artery disease."

Being slim and fit is desirable; no one denies it. But there are better ways of attaining this happy state than by playing around with one's blood cholesterol level.

anywhere in the Babe Ruth League or in American Legion ball at a more advanced age, has to learn certain things if only for the sake of self-protection. The good coach will know this.

How, then, is he to deal fairly with 10-year-old girls if mixed ball teams are going to be wished upon him? The art of avoiding contact presupposes an art of making contact; they cannot be separated. Baseball cannot be taught successfully as a game of inhibition, and the judge who does not know this is incapable of the act of judgment.

TRY AS I MAY, I cannot visualize my good friend Fred Coughlin, a mathematics teacher at Cheshire High School in Connecticut, teaching Little League or Babe Ruth League ball to a mixed group of girls and boys.

Fred burns with a passion to teach all the finer points of baseball to his charges. If he has a team of hitless wonders, he tries to adapt himself to the material. He is a master at getting kids around the bases on thefts, bunts and the hit-and-run game.

Contact is inevitable under his system; you don't bring home that crucial winning run if you aren't willing to crash into the catcher trying to make the tag at home plate.

Somewhere in the sports field the "separate but equal" doctrine applies. The learned judges haven't yet arrived at the point of ordering the schools to permit girls to become blocking backs, or to mix it with the six-footers-and-up gang that invariably takes over in basketball. The extremists in Women's Lib would no doubt break down the sex bars in football, wrestling and boxing.

But the women can't have it both ways. Do Billie Jean King and Chrissie Evert want to forego the big purses of the Virginia Slims female tennis circuit in favor of fighting for mixed tourney money against Rod Laver and John Newcombe, who don't happen to be middle-aged Bobby Riggses?

I leave it up to Billie Jean to tell the judges. Separate but equal has its place in sports.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Some astute rechecking may save you time, wasted energy and costly errors now. Don't divert efforts into unconstructive channels.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Planetary influences stimulate your ambition and talents. Be enthusiastic about all that could advance your cause and, in dealing with others, emphasize your nice sense of humor.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

The Geminian likes room for action, new projects, the means to improve unfavorable conditions. This day provides the opportunity for all of these.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

A new contact, possibly a change of scenery or activity indicated. Make the most of all, since they could lead to further gains.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Watch trends, but do not follow all. Ask questions, remember similar past conditions and the results of actions taken. You can find the right answer if you really search.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Aspects now stimulate your creative abilities and your imagination, but don't let the latter run "wild." Maintain a down-to-earth attitude even as your ambitions soar.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

If you do not organize your program early - and efficiently - you may find more to tackle at day's end than is reasonable. But fine achievement is possible if you keep things in order.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A certain amount of daring could prove profitable now, but, as with the Virgoan, don't let your imagination run out of bounds. The native of Scorpio has a lot of common sense. USE IT!

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may be faced with some new responsibilities, but don't let them dismay you. New benefits will accompany them, and all will add up to a more interesting future.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Certain activities will be definitely out of order, others prominently "in." Use good judgment. Consider the total picture when looking for guidance.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

You have the ability, but may lack the "nerve" or faith in yourself to move at the right moment. You must stress self-confidence now. Things ARE going your way.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

If you tried and did not attain, review well before trying the same thing again. A new method could turn the trick. Don't become discouraged.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual versatility, a lively imagination and a great enthusiasm for life. You are attracted to both music and the theater, but could also make an excellent business leader. You have a good head for finances and, even if you choose one of the arts or professions as a career, could make a great deal of money at it. You are inclined to be too "bossy" at times, however, tend to "lay down the law" for everyone. Curb this trait since it could make enemies of the very ones whose affections you desire.

Nolan claims court ruling was incorrect

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—James D. Nolan, a Democratic candidate for governor, said the Ohio Supreme Court did not read the law carefully when it ruled on Gov. John J. Gilligan's nominating petitions.

Thursday the court dismissed Nolan's suit charging that Gilligan could not file his petitions with a Cincinnati address.

"We pointed out to the Supreme Court that Gilligan had sold the house on Jan. 15, 1971-over three years ago," Nolan said Monday. "We were not contesting Mr. Gilligan's right to vote from that address, although highly dubious, but his affirming, under oath that the Taft Avenue address was in fact his true and legal post office address."

Nolan is Gilligan's only challenger in the Democratic primary.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

According to a news item the attorney general of Ohio states that he has no legal power to defend any Ohio official employed law enforcement officer indicted for a crime. Either Ohio law is archaic or the attorney general assumes that any officer, officially employed by the State of Ohio and indicted for a crime is guilty without trial, without defense and without recourse.

This great State of Ohio? Have I heard of lawyer collusion in dealing with a clients rights? National Guardsmen were indicted some three years after the alleged crime in the Kent State affair. Is the attorney general running scared, or lazy, or just running? Are we living in the Dark Ages? Some of the contemptible acts carried on against all peace officers by rioters running rampant over college campuses during the 60s and the early 70s were despicable. Spitting in their faces, spraying them with human urine, painting them with human feces and throwing all kinds of missiles at them. These acts would be unbearable to take without shattering your mind, even if you had the fine disciplinary training of the Guardsmen.

We speak of environmental problems: The greatest environmental problem is lawless people. This problem is destroying our country. We can at least use a slogan coined by the environmentalist, "PITCH-IN", for the defense of the Guardsmen. This will make you feel better.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Boss should specify secretary's duties

DEAR ABBY: The other day you published a letter from a secretary who professed to like her job and her boss, but she complained about being sent on non-clerical errands, such as picking up other employees or shopping for the boss, too often. This wasn't part of the job, she said, and she resented doing it.

And yet it would seem to me that if the boss sends her on these errands, and she does it on company time, then they are, indeed, a part of the job and she does not have a legitimate complaint. I could see her gripe if she were expected to do all these things on her own time, but this apparently wasn't the case. The problem is simply that she thinks she's being paid for her typing, and the boss thinks she's being paid for her time. I tend to agree with the boss. So long as he is footing the bill, what does it matter whether the secretary is taking dictation or doing the boss' legwork?

MS. JONES

DEAR MS. J.: When one advertises for a typist, if "legwork" is part of the job, the applicants should be so advised. An employer does not buy "time"—he buys "talent, muscle, or specialized skill." A woman hired to do secretarial work shouldn't be expected to sit with the kiddies any more than a man hired to sell real estate should be expected to wax floors.

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on a talk show recently, and you were asked: At what age do you think children should be told the facts of life? You replied, "When they're old enough to ask they're old enough to know."

I agree with you. I'm with Planned Parenthood, and this morning we heard from a group of angry mothers in one school district who are fuming about our weekend educational programs for 7th and 8th graders, so we've arranged to get the parents together so we can talk about it. By the time we're through those parents will be saying that they wish they had had this when they were kids. I know it will happen. It always does.

We have a slogan, "All obstacles can be turned into opportunities." It's true. Hang in there, Abby!

LYN IN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR LYN: Education is the answer V.D., illegitimacy and irresponsible sex. Count me as another who wishes they had sex education in the schools when I was a kid. What people don't know CAN hurt them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Next Sunday is Easter. Please do not give a child a living gift unless he is old enough to care for it properly. Every year a shocking number of baby chicks, rabbits, kittens and puppies have been mauled, man-handled, smothered and neglected to death by children who have received them as Easter gifts, and who regard them as toys. Have a heart and give small children stuffed animals instead.

Local highway crews in Xenia cleanup

Workers from the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County lent a hand in tornado-ravaged Xenia over the weekend.

Eugene Fitzpatric, superintendent of the state highway garage here, said four trucks and eight men were dispatched to the stricken area Friday and Saturday.

The workers hauled debris and assisted with chain saws while Xenia residents continued to search for personal belongings. The state highway workers labored until about 9 p.m. Friday and until 7 p.m. Saturday.

Fitzpatric said the crews will not return to the Greene County city until further notice.

State highway workers, meanwhile, are preparing for the annual spring inspection of equipment. The inspection will be held at 10 a.m.

Tuesday, April 16.

Also on the work schedule is a crack sealing project on Ohio 734, just west of Jeffersonville, berming and ditching projects, according to Fitzpatric. He said trash crews will also be in operation.

GENERAL maintenance projects will be occupying workers from the city street department this week, according to Bill Duncan, general foreman.

Duncan said the workmen will be sealing streets in various locations throughout Washington C. H. and clearing brush from the banks along Paint Creek.

Three drainage projects will be handled by county road crews.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said drainage projects have been scheduled for Sollars and McKay roads in Concord Township and Washington-Waterloo Road. He said the crews will also be repairing a section of Jamison Road and installing culverts.

Day of mourning for Kentucky town

by KATHY PELLEGRINO
Associated Press Writer

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — Cleanup operations were to resume today in this tornado-stricken Ohio River community, where residents paused Sunday to gather in a school gymnasium to honor the dead.

The process of digging through the rubble had continued most of Sunday also, despite the official declaration of the day of mourning for 30 who lost their lives when the tornado ripped through the Meade County community last Wednesday.

County Judge James Greer said all cleanup work halted briefly at 2 p.m. — the hour at which 1,800 gathered on bleachers at the Meade County High School gymnasium for the interdenominational funeral service.

Earlier in the day friends and relatives filed across the gym's canvas-covered floor to pay tribute at the 14 coffins that remained. Some victims had been buried earlier; others will be buried this week. One coffin held a mother and child.

All were honored in the ceremony conducted by a group of ministers representing the Nazarene, Baptist,

Methodist and Catholic faiths, who read a brief obituary for each of the dead. "Larry Edward Jupin. Born July 19, 1963. He is survived by..."

At one point the electricity failed. A stillness came over the gathering and the organist softly played "Faith of Our Fathers." The service resumed minutes later.

Flowers decked the coffins and the makeshift funeral parlor bore little resemblance to a gymnasium — except for the basketball goals raised high above the floor, scoreboards and the classroom-type chairs used to support the rope that cordoned off a seating section for immediate families of the victims.

A chaplain from nearby Ft. Knox read the list of dead. "The roll of the honored dead. Peggy Williams..."

The single service for the community's victims was set after local ministers and officials agreed a succession of services and funeral processions would add to the community's misery.

"It would have prolonged the thing," said Greer. "And it would be agonizing."

Pope urges youth to abandon protest forms

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has urged Roman Catholic youth to abandon fashionable forms of protest and, instead, support "some militant organization in the fields of action, piety or charity."

The pontiff, in a Palm Sunday rite in St. Peter's Basilica, also urged Catholic youth "not to be ashamed and run away when showing ourselves to be Christian makes others despise us."

The 76-year-old Pope spoke in a firm voice from his papal throne and looked well after two bouts of illness last month.

After the ceremony in the basilica, the Pope went to his apartment in the Vatican's Apostolic Palace and from a window blessed a crowd of 30,000 gathered in St. Peter's Square.

'Legend of Easter Flowers' presented by Mrs. Perrill

Members of the Fayette Garden Club were welcomed to the home of Miss Norma Dodd for the April meeting. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Homer Garringer and Mrs. Hugh Smith. Mrs. John G. Jordan offered devotions: calling to mind the worlds of Solomon and prompting one to realize that the "New Life", sunshine and rain of spring holds promise and hope for all.

Guest speaker, Mrs. Howard Perrill, presented a most informative program on "The Legend of Easter Flowers." She used each letter of the word "Easter Flowers," as a vehicle for her presentation.

Something significant of Easter was brought to mind with each letter. For example, the 'L' is significant of the legends of various trees and flowers; the dogwood was once a tall sturdy tree until it was used as the cross at Christ's crucifixion. The hawthorne is said to weep on Maundy Thursday because it was used to make Christ's crown of thorns; the aspen is said to quiver and tremble because it was considered for use as the cross. The lily of the valley are symbols of Mary's tears; anemone is said to have bloomed profusely at the base of the cross, thus its leaves are touched with bloodstains. Palm branches are the symbol of peace; the dandelion denotes the bitter root of passion and the laurel is the symbol of victory.

Mrs. Perrill placed particular emphasis on the Easter lily, its origin, its beauty and symbolism. This she presented in a most unique fashion by a talking lily. The talking lily and a lovely water color of lilies were presented as gifts to the garden club members whose birthdays were nearest to the meeting date. Mrs. Lawrence Lehman and Mrs. Robert M. Meriweather were the winners.

The club presented Mrs. Perrill with a china tea cup filled with daisies and sweetheart roses in appreciation for her program.

Mrs. Meriweather conducted the business session, when Mrs. Maryon Mark reported on the county-wide garden club workshop held recently at the Fish and Game Lodge, when sand candles and sand-castings were made.

Mrs. C. S. Kelley reported that seven members of the Fayette Garden Club attended an open meeting of the Posy Garden Club. The afternoon was spent learning and observing the art of pebble painting.

The club voted to give financial aid to the tornado victims of Wentz Rd.

Mrs. John Weade suggested Easter cards be sent to the club's shut-ins.

Plans are being made to attend the Region 16 Spring Meeting April 18 and the registration fee is $4.00. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Kelley no later than Tuesday.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Edwin Thompson at 1:30 p.m. May 10. The speaker will be Howard Knutson, a most well known rose grower and judge.

The meeting was concluded with a seed exchange.

Newlywed couple to reside in Maryland

Miss Susan Elaine Armbrust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Armbrust, 5128 Locust Grove Rd., became the bride of Neil Richard Swayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer C. Swayne, Rt. 2, McDermott. The Rev. Charles J. Richmond performed the double-ring ceremony in South Side Church of Christ, March 23 at 4:30 p.m.

Two seven-branch candelabra entwined with greenery and yellow bows, and a large pedestal basket of white mums and yellow poms graced the altar. Yellow satin bows marked the family pews.

Traditional wedding selections were played on the organ.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white silk organza with Schiffler embroidery in white and green. The empire embroidery sheer yoke had a jewel neckline. The Dresden sleeves were trimmed with embroidery, as was the gathered skirt. The chapel length detachable train also had embroidered motifs, and the chapel length illusion veil was held in place with a lace profile. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sharon K. Coulter of Chillicothe, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a gold chiffon gown with empire waist edged with gold, coral and green embroidery. The gown had a Peter Pan collar, Bishop sleeves and gathered skirt. She carried a colonial cascade of butterscotch and yellow daisies.

Don B. Swayne of Hillsboro, served as best man for his brother. Seating the wedding guests were E. Frank Armbrust and Rodger H. Armbrust, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Armbrust, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Swayne, the groom's mother, each wore a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses, as did the grandmothers.

Hostesses for the reception held in Fellowship Hall at the church were the Misses Diana Sue Melvin and Debbie Merritt. Mrs. Robert Melvin presided at the guest registry.

The new Mrs. Swayne, a recent graduate of MATA College in Columbus, attended Miami Trace High School. Her husband, a 1965 graduate of Northwest High School and Bell and Howell School, is employed at Bendix Corporation in Columbus, Md., where he is an electronics technician.

The couple is residing in Columbia, Md., following a trip through the Smokey Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Armbrust were hosts for the rehearsal dinner at the church on Friday evening.

Jeff women make plans for M-D banquet

The Jeffersonville United Methodist Church Women met for a noon luncheon at the church with 19 members and one guest present.

Mrs. Howard Burnett Jr. opened the meeting with the poem "April."

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet for 6:30 p.m. April 26 was discussed. Reservations are to be in by April 24. Also discussed was the purchase of drapes for Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Rowena Cummins presented an interesting program pertaining to Easter.

The next meeting will be May 1 in the church chapel. Mrs. Burnett was in charge of the closing.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Margaret Emrick and her 14-year-old grandson, Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Emrick, have returned from a two-week vacation in Florida. They visited Mrs. Emrick's son and daughter-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Emrick and Kim, Tim and Jim in Fort Lauderdale. They also visited points of interest in Miami Beach, Hollywood, Fla.

The Easter Sunrise breakfast was planned.

Mrs. Opal Wilson was presented a gift from the class and church in honor of her golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Florence Bethards conducted the Bible study. She used Scripture in poetry form which she read and sang.

East present received an Easter favor and refreshments were served to Mrs. Maude Shubert, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Hayslip, Mrs. Helen Pemberton, Mrs. Addie Barger, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Bethard, and guests, Mrs. Margaret Newland and Mrs. Nona Stevens.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An obscure television producer, Everett Scrimshaw, of Bumfudgeon, Fla., announced today the creation of a new awards program to honor the best awards shows on TV this year.

"It's called the first annual 'Award Awards' show," he said. "It covers all categories — the Oscars, the Emmys, the Tonys, the Grammys and whatever else comes up."

Scrimshaw, who recently got his own award as the outstanding escapee of the Bumfudgeon Home for the Weird, was asked how he came upon the unique idea of the Award Awards.

"I was drinking," he said. And, he added, "it struck me, as did my wife, that even with all these awards shows on TV, nobody's ever really paid tribute to the people who make them what they are."

Scrimshaw declined to say with whom he's negotiating for the TV rights to the Award Awards show. He said it'll be broadcast from the new Bumfudgeon Civic Center right after the Halloween sock hop.

"It'll be a black-tie affair," he emphasized. "There's enormous interest in it. Snidely Foon, the haberdasher here, already's having a run on boiled dickies."

Americans divided on abortion

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The American public remains almost evenly divided in the abortion controversy, according to the Gallup Poll.

In the latest survey, taken last month, adults in more than 300 towns throughout the country were asked: "The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that a woman may go to a doctor to end pregnancy at any time during the first three months of pregnancy. Do you favor or oppose this ruling?"

Of 1,582 adults surveyed, 47 per cent expressed approval, while 44 per cent said they opposed it. Nine per cent had no opinion.

A similar poll in December 1972, taken before the Supreme Court ruling, showed 46 per cent in favor and 45 per cent opposed.

The polling organization said little change had occurred in the attitudes of major population groups between the surveys. In both surveys, more men than women favored abortion privileges. Catholics continued to oppose them by about two-to-one, and Protestants remained slightly in favor of them.

In the latest poll, 51 per cent of the men and 43 per cent of the women expressed approval, while 38 per cent of the men and 49 per cent of the women were opposed.

The poll found sharp differences based on education. Persons with college educations favored abortion privileges 67 per cent to 27 per cent against. Of those whose educations stopped with high school, 44 per cent approved and 48 per cent disapproved. Among those with grade school educations, 25 per cent approved and 57 per cent disapproved.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Toy Gun

Grocer Hawkins put up no resistance as the youthful robber cleaned out his cash register. To Hawkins, the young man's pistol was all too real.

But in fact, the pistol was a toy. When the robber was later caught and brought to trial for "armed robbery," he insisted that the charge would not stand up.

"The simple truth is," he told the court, "that I was not armed at all. That gun I had couldn't hurt a flea."

Nevertheless, the court decided he was guilty as charged. The court said what mattered was not the actual character of the gun but the way it looked to the victim.

Most courts agree. That is, they view the holdup weapon "through the eyes of the beholder." They reason that the essence of the crime is putting the victim in fear, which can be done as effectively with a gun that only looks deadly as with one that really is.

THERE HAVE EVEN been cases of "armed robbery" in which the robber had no weapon at all. Thus: another holdup man terrified his victim merely by showing a menacing bulge in his coat pocket.

Yet, a court decided this was enough basis for a charge of armed robbery. The court said the fear that the robber had a gun, plus the fear that he might use it, was all that the law required by way of intimidation.

Still, the fear must be at least of physical harm — not of a lesser form of pressure. Suppose A says to B:

"Unless you hand over $500, I'll get you in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service."

If B pays off, A may be guilty of some offense — but not robbery. As one court put it:

"There can be no robbery without violence. The menace must be of a sort to excite reasonable apprehension of danger. Threat of prosecution for a crime is regarded as insufficient (because) a man in the hands of the law is not legally presumed to be in danger of bodily harm."

2,800 attend three-day Home Show

Nearly 3,000 persons attended the ninth annual Fayette County Home Show which was staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Fayette County Fairground.

Steve Reisinger, chairman of this year's show, said attendance figures for the three-day event reached 2,800.

Reisinger said this year's attendance count was about 800 below the previous year's figure of 3,600.

More than 400 persons braved wet, cold weather to attend the opening session of the Home Show Friday night, while 1,200 persons attended the vent both Saturday and Sunday, according to Reisinger.

Members of the Washington C.H. Chamber of Commerce Ambassador Club launched the event with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday night. A total of 37 exhibitors presented a variety of home furnishings, services and miscellaneous merchandise in booths located in the Mahan and Fine Arts buildings.

One of the highlights of the three-day Home Show was the awarding of grand prizes each of three days.

Leslie Lanum, of Washington C.H., won the $600 grand prize Sunday night and Brent Brown, of Bloomingburg, was the winner of a 25-inch color television set Saturday. A 10-speed bicycle was the grand prize for Friday's session and was won by Eleanor Herman, of Washington C.H.

In addition to the $600 cash prize, the color television and 10-speed bicycle, prizes donated by Home Show participants were awarded every half hour of the three-day event.

Reisinger said the weather was a factor in attendance Friday night. He said the Home Show also was competing with plays being staged at Miami Trace and Washington Senior high schools Friday and Saturday nights.

BEFORE COMMITTEE SESSION — Rep. Peter Rodino, left, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary committee, chats with counsel John Doar prior to a committee meeting on Capitol Hill. Rodino said a subpoena will be issued for White House tapes if necessary.

WCH tornado warning urged

A suggestion for developing an alert weather warning system for the Washington C.H. area was discussed by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners during the regular weekly meeting Monday morning.

James Dunn, executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber office has been receiving numerous inquiries concerning an alert warning system for the Washington C.H. area since a tornado devastated Xenia last Wednesday.

Commissioner Robert J. Mace said a siren to be used for disasters such as tornadoes is located in the bell tower atop the Courthouse building roof. He said the siren is about two feet wide and approximately three feet in height. The warning siren has not been used for several years, according to Mace.

A control switch for the warning siren is located in the Washington C.H. Police Department, it was pointed out during the discussion.

MACE SUGGESTED scheduling a meeting with city officials soon to conduct a test alert with the Courthouse siren.

The tornado-ravaged Xenia area was discussed informally by commissioners and board member Ray D. Warner pointed out that he feels that some assistance should be made available to residents on the Wentz Road near Milledgeville, where a tornado hit early last week, demolishing six mobile homes injuring nine persons.

Only routine matters confronted commissioners during the morning session. Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 34 dog reports for the week.

Commissioners were scheduled to meet with Jack Sanders, president of the Fayette County Pilots Association, at 3:30 p.m. today.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said at least two of the three commissioners will be attending the annual county commissioners seminar Tuesday and Wednesday in Columbus.

C. of C. slates week's activity

A breakfast meeting of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's executive committee Monday launched the week's activities schedule for the Chamber of Commerce, according to Fred L. Domenico, president.

Domenico said the executive committee prepared the agenda for the Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting. The board meeting will be held at 8 a.m. Thursday in the Chamber office.

John Lachat, chairman of the accreditation committee, has scheduled a meeting at 8 a.m. Tuesday in the Chamber office to review the Chamber of Commerce facilities and equipment.

The Downtown Business Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Chamber office. Ray Downing, chairman of the association, has indicated that planning and coordination for the Old Fashioned Bargain Days promotion will highlight the agenda for the meeting.

Domenico reminds all members that ballots for the election of new directors are due in the Chamber office by 5 p.m. Monday, April 15.

Energy pinch to cut farm sales

AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The world energy situation may cause some countries to reduce purchases of U.S. farm products over the next year, the Agriculture Department said today.

But for now, USDA experts said, farm exports in the fiscal year beginning July 1 still are expected to be worth $17 billion to $19 billion. That estimate was announced several months ago and would be second only to the record $20 billion worth of farm commodities sold abroad this fiscal year.

The latest analysis was made in a series of reports published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service in "Foreign Agriculture," a weekly circular.

"Shortages and sudden price increases for energy that surprised the world last October have jolted agricultural production and trade at almost every level," Reed E. Friend, one USDA specialist wrote.

"Paralleling the situation at the farm level, where fuels and fertilizer are scarce and costly, political and economic repercussions are under way that could significantly alter present world trading patterns and growth trends," Friend said.

The task of estimating what might occur is so difficult, Friend indicated, that the energy crunch actually might keep global demand for U.S. farm products at a high level in the coming months.

For example, he said, some countries might step-up imports of feed grains, soybeans and other animal feed in order to increase self-sufficiency in livestock products.

But Friend said it was also possible that U.S. farm exports might be reduced as some countries experience sharp slowdowns in economic growth and reductions in consumer income.

"The changing value of the dollar — caused by the relatively low dependency of the United States on petroleum imports — has made U.S. goods some what more expensive on international markets," Friend said.

Another specialist, Spencer F. England, said a rise of 170 per cent in world oil prices since last fall "probably will not cause most developed countries to restrict imports of U.S. farm products this year" to solve balance-of-payments problems.

"But a small number of U.S. farm markets ... will be hardpressed to maintain currency reserves and could initiate measures to restrict farm imports," England said. That possibility exists in a few richer or "developed" countries and in many poorer "developing" nations, he said.

The richer countries most able to cope with high oil prices — and thus be in position to continue buying U.S. farm products — include Australia, Austria, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Spain and Switzerland, England said. Those countries bought 23.5 per cent of U.S. farm exports last calendar year.

Also, England said, another group — including Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Ireland, Japan, Norway and Sweden — will "find it difficult" to meet balance-of-payment deficits but are not likely to cut farm imports. Those took 21.8 per cent of U.S. shipments in 1973.

Hypertension cure seen through study

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — New studies on rats suggest a possible lead toward prevention and cure of "essential" hypertension, the most puzzling and by far the commonest form of high blood pressure.

Hypertension constitutes one of the nation's major health problems because it can lead to fatal heart disease and cerebral strokes.

"Essential" hypertension means high blood pressure of unknown cause. It is distinguished from high blood pressure arising from certain other conditions, such as kidney disease. About 19 million of the 23 million Americans who suffer from hypertension are afflicted with the "essential" type.

The prevailing theory points to changes in the automatic nervous system and certain glandular systems as the causes of "essential" hypertension.

But two researchers say their studies with four types of hypertensive rats indicate that "essential" hypertension may be caused instead by a metabolic defect in the smooth muscle of blood vessel walls.

M. Sarmir Amer and Gordon R. McKinney revealed the results of their studies today at the 58th annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The two said their work at the Mead-Johnson laboratories in Evansville, Ind., indicated the suspected biochemical blood vessel defect could lead to a whole new approach to treatment of high blood pressure. Doctors could prescribe drugs for treating the blood vessel defect rather than simply for lowering the blood pressure, they said.

Dr. Arthur Hayes Jr., head of hypertension research at Pennsylvania State Medical College at Hershey, Pa., pointed out that present drug treatment for "essential" hypertension is based on the nervous system/glandular concept. He explained it is designed only to lower the blood pressure without getting at any specific mechanism that might be triggering the hypertension itself.

"We often have to use multiple drugs with a high incidence of dangerous or annoying side effects," he said.

Endlessly honed and leveled by a succession of Ice Age glaciers, Denmark has prompted neighboring Norwegians, to tax the Danes with the comment: "If you stand on a box you can see the whole country."

carbohydrate diet and frequent small meals. Despite organized medicines insistence that calories alone are the key to losing weight, the research clearly shows that the source of the calories is equally important. Carbohydrate, says the medical researcher, is the "crucial determinant" regulating the degree of obesity. Supplementing the low carbohydrate diet with polyunsaturated fat (vegetable oil) increases the oxidation of stored fat (palmitate) by 20 to 25% — and that, says the paper, is the way to diminish excess weight.

Ohio Perspective

Job bureau given new image

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "stodgy, bureaucratic" state Bureau of Employment Services has changed its name to Ohio Job Services to improve its image.

"When you say Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, you say a mouthful," said Stan Wyman, agency spokesman. "When you say Ohio Job Services, it tells the whole story."

"We're dealing with jobs and people. The effect, we hope, will be positive identification."

Because of the imposing name, Wyman said many Ohio considered the bureau "stodgy and bureaucratic, and we agreed with them."

He said the federal government "came up with the idea of the name 'job services.' What we have done is taken their idea and adopted to our use."

The bureau has used the name along with the Ohio state flag on new red, white and blue signs, which have been going up in the three major metropolitan areas.

"We are replacing the signs as needed," Wyman said. "We haven't gone out and ordered a million, zillion signs. As the signs break or have to be replaced, we are ordering on that basis."

The signs, which cost about $150 installed, first went up at the bureau's seven new neighborhood offices in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati. Three more offices are planned, including one in Medina.

The new signs coupled with the neighborhood offices are an attempt to reach the people on the street, Wyman said. "When a guy on the street sees our sign and symbol, he knows what it's all about," he added.

Wyman said, "If a guy is looking for a job, he knows to come to us. If he's looking for employees, he knows to come to us. We think it's a hell of a good concept."

He said the bureau through its 120 offices in 79 counties placed 211,999 persons last year. The figure represented a 21 per cent increase in both agricultural and non-agricultural placements over 1972.

The bureau, which received all of its $30 million budget last year from the federal government, provides job placements free both to individuals and employers.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — Time and time again, Congress has been chastised severely for its role in the deficit spending process, primarily because of its affinity for authorizing expenditures of the taxpayers' money well beyond our budgetary means.

Considering the state of the economy these days, there are very few who could refute this statement.

One of my colleagues, in fact, recently investigated some of the effects this undisciplined spending in government can do. What he learned is that the federal government now spends $1,750 annually for every man, woman and child in the United States. He also estimated that if the present rate of deficit spending continues, in about 30 years the per capita spending will be approximately $15,000 per year.

In an effort to enforce more discipline in the federal spending, however, Congress is now considering legislation which would establish the machinery for a congressional budget process. The Budget Control Act, now in a House-Senate conference, designs an appropriations process specifically geared to limiting government spending to the resources of the national income.

FIRST, a new budget committee would be created in both houses and a congressional office similar to the White House Office of Management and Budget would be established. The committee would play an important part in the new budget process which is geared not only toward avoiding deficit spending but also toward completing congressional actions on the budget within a specified time span.

Lately, for example, many of the major appropriations bills are approved well after the fiscal year for which they are designated has started. Continuing authorizations which keep spending at the same level as the previous year for the various agencies provide the operating expenses in the meantime, but the economic uncertainty and potential for wasteful spending they present have done nothing so far to alleviate our budgetary woes.

Moreover, the new budget committee system would end the old practice under which Congress provides for spending in more than a dozen appropriations and in other measures providing for automatic spending, such as Social Security benefits.

Instead, the bills would be considered comprehensively, not as though they were unrelated to each other and without thought as to whether there is enough money to finance them.

UNDER the House bill, the fiscal year would be changed from the present July 1 through June 30 schedule to an Oct. 1 through Sept. 30 period. Within this framework, the President would continue to submit a budget to Congress in January.

However, by the beginning of March, House committees would have to submit their views and recommendations on budget outlays and authority for their specific jurisdictions, on federal revenue levels and on the public debt ceiling limit.

Before April, all legislation authorizing new budget authority would have to be completed and appropriations bills would follow. By mid-September, Congress would then have to determine the final levels of revenue spending and debt for those appropriations in excess of the tentative budget.

That would leave two weeks to complete any remaining action on the budget before the end of the fiscal year, and Congress would not be allowed to adjourn until the final budget resolution and implementing legislation are enacted.

THE SENATE has passed similar legislation although several of the intermediate deadlines differ. If agreement can be reached on the proposal and the president signs it into law as he is expected to, the new budget system would go into effect in 1977.

The idea behind this congressional reform, however, does not have to wait until 1977 to go into effect. The sooner Congress stops appropriating money bit by bit with no thought to the overall impact on the budget the better.

Congress, and specifically the House of Representatives, has the constitutionally authorized "power of the purse," but unless it changes its spendthrift ways, even with the proposed budget reform, it will be a long, long time before Congress will ever be accused of fiscal responsibility.

18-year-olds may register by mail

Eighteen-year-old Fayette County men will be able to register for the draft by mail rather than appearing in person at a registrar's office, according to Paul A. Corey, director of the Ohio Selective Service system.

"Now young men will have three options for fulfilling the registration requirement," Corey said. "They can register at a local board office, with a volunteer registrar, or by mail."

Corey cautioned that the law requires all male persons in the United States (except certain non-immigrant aliens) to register with the Selective Service system with the 60-day period commencing 30 days prior to their 18th birthday.

Young men will now be able to pick up a form and complete it at home. After completing the form, he need only fold, seal and mail it. Poster-box displays containing the registration forms are placed in the Washington C.H., Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg post offices.

The nearest selective service office is located in the Federal Building, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus. The telephone number is 614-469-5722.

MTHS fares well in state judging meet

Two Miami Trace High School students fared well in the 51st annual Ohio Future Farmers of America judging contests which were held Saturday at Ohio State University, Columbus.

Scott Jenks captured first place honors in the livestock judging contest and received a $600 scholarship, while Sam Grooms finished second in the dairy products judging contest.

The Miami Trace livestock judging team took third place behind Seneca East High School and Greenfield McClain. Tom Taylor, of Greenfield, was second behind Jenks in the individual livestock judging contest.

A TOTAL of 3,000 high school vocational agriculture students participated in the event and 260 Ohio high schools were represented.

Judging activities included dairy, agricultural mechanics skills, meats, dairy products, poultry, wool, agronomy, general livestock, air-cooled engines, timber cruising and lumber grading.

Teams for agronomy, general livestock, wool, poultry, milk, meats and dairy cattle had three members each while agricultural mechanics was judged by individuals. Timber cruising and lumber grading were judged by two-man teams.

Other judging activities included an air-cooled engine contest at Eastland Vocational School held the same day where teams of two students each disassembled, repaired, adjusted and operated a group of engines that contained certain difficulties. The quality of work and time needed determined the winners.

The ornamental horticulture and floriculture contest will be held May 18 at Ohio State University.

THE GENERAL management of all events was in charge of James E. Dougan, of the Ohio Department of Education, and Ralph E. Bender, of Ohio State University, with John Watkins, area supervisor for vocational agriculture education of the Ohio Department of Education, coordinating the day's activities.

A special awards presentation breakfast will be held April 27 at the Rhodes Center on the Ohio State Fairground in conjunction with the Ohio FFA convention to present trophies and awards to the top achievers from the judging contests.

Ohio man faces tax indictment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Nick Peters of Massillon has been indicted by a federal grand jury on eight counts of income tax evasion, charging that he failed to pay $86,000 in taxes for the years 1967 through 1970.

The indictment returned by the special jury investigating organized crime in the United States charges that much of the income came from a gambling business.

The indictment says Peters understated his income by $174,000 for the four years.

Braves top Reds, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Al Downing of Los Angeles must have only one thought tumbling around in his brain:
Getting past Bad Henry.
Tonight, in front of thousands of frenzied fans in Atlanta and millions more stationed in front of television sets across the nation, Downing and the Dodgers will have that goal in mind.
Henry Aaron was bad, indeed, on Sunday, striking out twice like any mortal baseball player and grounding out meekly in his only other at-bat.
Perhaps Clay Kirby's pitches were that good—or perhaps Aaron was just succumbing to the pressure of being forced to start for Atlanta Sunday against the Cincinnati Reds, a game won 5-3 by the Braves on Darrell Evans' three-run homer.
In Sunday's other National League games, the New York Mets pounded

Philadelphia 9-2. San Francisco belted Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles walloped San Diego 9-2. Snow kayoed the Chicago Cubs' doubleheader at Montreal and rain postponed Pittsburgh's game at St. Louis.
Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn issued the order that Aaron start on Sunday. Kuhn had "suggested" that Aaron start in Thursday's season opener and Aaron's first swing became homer No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record. He sat out Saturday and was going to do the same Sunday, just to make sure he didn't rob Atlanta fans of No. 715 as well.
Then Kuhn made his own ground rules, ordering Brave Manager Eddie Mathews to include Hank's name on his lineup card.
"I don't want to get involved," the soft-spoken slugger said.
Downing, commenting on all the

Kirby, an off-season acquisition from San Diego making his debut with the Reds, felt exactly the same way Sunday.
"I just said to myself, 'Gotta get him out,'" and he did, avoiding the notoriety which would have made him "an instant star for doing something bad...I just happened to make good pitches to him." Then he added, almost ominously: "He gonna hit it—No. 715—and pretty quick."
Maybe too quick for Al Downing's taste.
Mets 9, Phils 2
Jerry Grote hit a tie-breaking single in a fourth-run eighth inning, then clubbed a three-run homer in a five-run ninth which enabled New York to bury Philadelphia.
But even more satisfying than the 16-hit assault against Jim Lonborg and three relievers was Tug McGraw's aboutface for the Mets.
On Saturday, in relief of Tom Seaver, he threw a game winning home run ball to Mike Schmidt. On Sunday, replacing Jon Matlack, he struck out powerful Greg Luzinski, who represented the tying run.
Giants 8, Astros 4
San Francisco's sluggers flexed their muscles again. Gary Matthews hit a run-scoring triple and Dave Kingman followed with a three-run homer in the first inning and Bobby Bonds belted a two-run double in the third to power San Francisco past Houston.
But the Astros did a bit of swinging, too, forcing Jim Willoughby to struggle for the victory. He gave up four runs in five innings, two on Doug Rader's homer.
Dodgers 9, Padres 2
Los Angeles had muscle, too. And for the first time this season, the Dodgers had something else, too—a run scored against them.
Jim Wynn and Steve Garvey boomed homers and Ron Cey drove in three runs en route to demolishing the Padres.
Andy Messersmith tossed an eight-hitter but his bid for the Dodgers' third straight shutout ended in the sixth inning on Willie McCovey run-scoring single, snapping San Diego's 23-inning scoreless streak.

Henry Aaron back on home field

ATLANTA (AP) — Henry Aaron, taking in stride the controversy surrounding his quest for baseball immortality, returns to his home park tonight where playing orders from

Randy Reiber wins berth to state bowling championship

The Southeastern Ohio qualifiers for the National All-America Youth Bowling Championships, were held Saturday at Bowland Lanes with 25 persons participating.
The tournament was open to graduating senior boys and girls. A total of six games were bowled per person in four divisions.
The divisions were boys scratch and handicap and girls scratch and handicap.
In boys scratch division Robert Martin, Chillicothe, won with a total pin count of 992. In the boys handicap division Miami Trace's Randy Reiber was the winner with a pin count of 1204.
The girls scratch winner was Deborah Allen, Heath, with a total of 949. Kathy Call was the girls handicap winner with a 1205. Kathy is from Portsmouth.
These four winners will go to the state tournament with a possibility of going to the National Championship finals on July 21.
Score keeper and checker was Miss Verna Williams with tournament directors being Tony Capuana and John Wedgewood.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn won't be needed.
"Yeah, that's definite I'm going to play tomorrow," the 40-year-old Atlanta Braves slugger said Sunday at the end of a stormy five-day stay in Cincinnati.
Aaron renews his bid to become the game's all-time home run king in Atlanta Stadium tonight in the Braves' home opener of 1974 against the Los Angeles Dodgers and left-handed pitcher Al Downing.
The soft-spoken star, playing under a direct order from Kuhn, went hitless in three trips Sunday in Atlanta's 5-3 victory over Cincinnati, leaving him tied with the legendary Babe Ruth at 714 lifetime home runs.
A sellout crowd of 52,870 and a massive national television (NBC) audience is expected to watch the game and a special 30-minute program tribute to Aaron.
"We obeyed the commissioner," Aaron told a swarm of sports writers in the Braves clubhouse at Cincinnati Sunday. "I hope everybody's happy. Yes, I'm happy."
"I just hope tomorrow night it all will be over with and things can get back to normal," he said. "It's been quite a week here."
Aaron was called out on strikes in his first two appearances Sunday and then grounded out to third before leaving the game in the middle of the seventh inning.
Spurred by the prolonged controversy over his playing status, Aaron was asked if he had tried to hit a home run.
"I played the game and did the best I could," he said.

Oakland defeats Rangers 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Reggie Jackson won't be able to hit in Texas again until August 6.
But if the Oakland A's could play there all the time and add one Rangers' player to their lineup, Jackson says the American League West title would nearly be wrapped up by then.
The outspoken A's outfielder bid a fond farewell to Arlington Stadium with his second and third home runs of the season and seven runs batted in Oakland's 8-4 triumph over the Rangers.
He finished the American League baseball season's opening series with seven hits in 13 at bats, eight runs batted in, two doubles and a .538 batting average.
Jackson could well have added to those impressive statistics had Ferguson Jenkins not one-hit the A's Saturday night.
"If we had him on our staff," said Jackson, "we could all go home by Aug. 15."
In other American League games Sunday, the California Angels and Chicago White Sox were tied 4-4 after 10 innings when snow postponed their contest; the New York Yankees bombed the Cleveland Indians 7-1; the Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader—the Orioles won the opener 5-1 and the Tigers took the second 8-4 in 10 innings.
The Boston Red Sox at Milwaukee Brewers game was rained out, as was the Minnesota Twins-Kansas City Royals contest.
"I've never had a start like this before—ever," said Jackson, the Most Valuable Player during the 1973 regular season and World Series. "Normally, I get off slow."

Angels 4, White Sox 4
Snow began falling during the eighth inning and led to the postponement of the California-Chicago game after 10 innings of play. The entire game will be replayed at a date to be determined, but all records of Sunday's contest will be counted toward the final statistics.
The Angels had a 4-1 lead after seven innings, but Chicago scored twice in the eighth and tied it in the ninth on Ken Henderson's double and Carlos May's single.
The White Sox might have won the game in the ninth, but a perfect throw from Joe Lahoud cut down Bill Melton at the plate.
Yankees 7, Indians 1
Pat Dobson pitched a five-hitter and Thurman Munson homered to spark the Yankees' triumph over the Indians.

Dobson surrendered the Cleveland run before he got anyone out in the first inning, but allowed just three hits the rest of the way.
Roy White tripled and scored on an infield out, then Munson homered to put New York in front for good.
The Yanks added a run in the third, made it 4-1 in the fifth, and added three runs in the eighth—two on Jim Mason's single.
Orioles 5-4, Tigers 1-8
Ron Cash slapped the 10th inning which broke a 4-4 tie and Ed Brinkman added a two-run single later in the inning to help Detroit defeat the Orioles in the second game of the doubleheader.
Ross Grimsley, staked to a five-run lead in the first inning, held the Tigers scoreless until the ninth on the way to victory in the first game.

Little League tryouts to be held April 9, 10

Little League tryouts will be held April 9 and 10 starting at 6 p.m. at Wilson Field. Rain dates will be April 15 and 16.

On April 9 all boys of ages 10, 11, or 12 on or before July 31, 1974 must tryout for the Major Leagues. There will be no exceptions to the official Little League rules. If you do not tryout for the Majors at this time then you will go into the pool rather than stay on the same Minor League team you were on last year. The lone exception to this rule would be those boys returning to a Major League team. They need not tryout but should advise their manager of their intent to play.

On April 10 all boys who will be eight or nine years old on or before July 31, 1974, and who did not play Little League last year must tryout for the Minor Leagues at this time.

All boys are reminded to bring their applications.

Yanks bomb Cleveland

NEW YORK (AP) — As far as the New York Yankees are concerned, Yankee Stadium doesn't ever have to be rebuilt. The team has a two-year lease at Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets, and the players just might petition for a longer stay if things keep going their way.

"This is a nice, fair park and you can see the ball much better here than at Yankee Stadium," said Thurman Munson who hit a 400-foot home run in Sunday's 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"I like to hit here better than in Yankee Stadium," said Graig Nettles, who homered in Saturday's 6-1 opening day triumph. Neither ball would have been a homer in Yankee Stadium's famed Death Valley.

"I like to pitch here much better; I never liked to pitch in Yankee Stadium," said Pat Dobson, who limited Cleveland to five hits Sunday.

Nettles' home run Saturday sailed over the 371-foot mark in left center while Munson's Sunday shot departed in right-center between the 396 and 410 signs.

Des Moines gains Turner Cup finals

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Peta Mara and Bob Law each scored three-goal hat tricks to lead Des Moines to its fourth victory against no losses against Flint in their best-of-seven International Hockey League semifinals playoffs for the Turner Cup.

The deciding game was played in Des Moines Sunday night.

Des Moines now meets the winner of another playoff between Saginaw and Columbus to determine possession of the cup. Saginaw defeated Columbus in the only game played in their series.

Lakers eliminated from playoffs

By BERT ROSENTHAL

AP Sports Writer

"I felt they knew the game was over early," said Milwaukee's Jon McGlocklin after the Bucks walloped Los Angeles 114-92 and eliminated the Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

It was a sad and sombre observation about the once-powerful Lakers, who only last season had reached the final series before losing to the New York Knicks in five games.

Their loss to the Bucks Sunday night at Milwaukee made them the first team to be ousted from the playoffs this season, losing the scheduled best-of-seven Western Conference series 4-1. The victory moved the Bucks into the West final against the winner of the Chicago-Detroit series, tied at 2-2 following the Pistons' 102-87 triumph

Sunday night.

In the other NBA playoff game Sunday, the New York Knicks edged the Capital Bullets 106-105 for a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The other East series, between the Boston Celtics and Buffalo Braves, tied at 2-2, resumes Tuesday night at Boston.

In the only ABA playoff game Sunday, the New York Nets trounced the Virginia Squires 116-88 for a 3-1 lead in their East Division semifinal.

The Kentucky Colonels, leading Carolina 3-0 in the other ABA East pairing, can clinch the series tonight with a victory over the beleaguered Cougars at Lexington, Ky. In the West, the Utah Stars, leading the Conquistadors 3-2, can advance to the final with a triumph at San Diego tonight, and the Indiana Pacers, with a 3-2 advantage over the Spurs, can end their series in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar the dominant performer with 21 points and 13 rebounds, and Ron Williams contributing 22 points, overwhelmed the Lakers for the second straight game with a devastating fast break and relentless team defense.

The Bucks took charge quickly, reeling off 17 consecutive points in the first quarter for a commanding 23-6 lead.

Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 22 points, but had only four in the first half when Milwaukee raced to a 51-28 lead.

Bob Charles wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bob Charles, once again a winner on the American tour, is busily rearranging his schedule.

"I'll have to change things round a bit," the slender, graying veteran from New Zealand said Sunday after his victory — his first since 1967 in the United States — in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I'll now make two more trips to the United States this year," he said. "I'll definitely play in 15 tournaments. I'll definitely play enough to keep my card."

He hadn't planned on that. He'd planned to surrender his playing privileges in the United States until his final-round three-under-par 68 stood off a half-dozen challenges and won him the $44,066 first prize in this tournament.

Charles, a 38-year-old former British Open champion who abandoned the American tour a year ago, finished with a 270 total, 14 under par on the 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

He finished one stroke ahead of Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino, tied at 271. Floyd, who lost a share of the lead with a bogey on the final hole, had a closing 67 and Trevino, gunning for a second consecutive triumph, once took a share of the lead with three straight birdies and finished with a 66.

Charles opened the final round with a one-stroke lead, but a bogey on the second hole opened the gates. Five other players shared the lead at one time or another on the sunny day before Charles solved it all in the run down the stretch before a massive gallery of 47,253.

The left-hander birdied the 17th after a beautiful iron shot left him a five-foot putt. He holed it to go 14 under and move past Trevino, who had finished at 13 under.

Lennie Waldo winner of Tri-County race

WEST CHESTER, Ohio (AP) — Lennie Waldo, of Columbus, holds the 30-lap speed record at Tri-County Speedway's half mile oval after winning the late model feature Sunday in 9:27.39.

Waldo, in his 1969 Camaro, took the lead from Don Gregory, also of Columbus, on the 19th lap. Gregory, in a 1972 Camaro finished second and John Vallo, of Miamisburg, finished third in a 1973 Camaro.

Interest in Ovarian Cysts

Letters are beginning to pour in about ovarian cysts. It is interesting that as soon as a particular condition is reported involving a prominent person, interest associated with anxiety begins to mount.

Ovaries are two oval-shaped glands about the size of small plums. They lie in the pelvis, or lower abdomen, on each side of the uterus.

The function of the ovaries is to produce the ovum, or egg which, when fertilized by the male sperm, begins the process of pregnancy and the development of the child.

The ovaries also produce two important highly specialized hormones. One, the estrogen hormone, is involved in the growth and maturation of the female. The second hormone, progesterone, in combination with estrogen, prepares the lining of the womb for the nourishment and growth of the fertilized egg.

Under normal circumstances, when the egg leaves the ovary each month, a small cyst remains. This quickly shrinks and disappears.

Occasionally, a large cyst develops and may grow to considerable size. Sometimes they cause no symptoms at all. At other times, ovarian cysts may become twisted and give symptoms that closely resemble an attack of appendicitis.

When a cyst of the ovary becomes complicated, surgery is necessary and often involves the removal of the ovary itself.

Only a few moments are necessary to revitalize the blood circulation by briskly walking around.

There is the possibility that some other underlying cause may be present in your case. This should be checked by your doctor.

Three drivers cited in weekend crashes

A Dayton woman was charged by city police with a red light violation and her passenger showed visible signs of injury in an accident which occurred Sunday morning.

Also reported was a hitskip and two other accidents.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two hitskips and three other accidents over the weekend.

POLICE

SUNDAY — 9:14 a.m. — A car driven by Opal L. Rooks, 58, Dayton, collided with a car driven by Charles T. Collins, 67, of 428 Eastern Ave., at the intersection of Clinton and Oakland avenues.

The passenger in the Rooks vehicle, Carrie Rooks, 37, Dayton, suffered a shinned knee but was not treated.

Ms. Rooks was charged by police with a traffic light violation.

SATURDAY — 8:07 p.m. — A truck owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was moderately damaged by a hitskip driver while it was parked at the B and O office on the Paint Street curve.

Police said the car failed to negotiate the curve and collided with the truck.

4:50 p.m. — A minor accident occurred at the intersection of Court and Fayette streets, involving cars driven

Sheriff, police investigating larceny reports

The sum of $43 was stolen from the Dollar Motel, Interstate 71 and U.S. 35, and a rubber hose was stolen from a gas station over the weekend, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

Police reported a bicycle and 10 gallons of gasoline stolen.

Sometime between 2:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday someone took $43 from a locked cash drawer under the counter in the lobby office of the Dollar Motel.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the incident reported the attendant was gone and the key to the cash drawer was lying nearby.

Five feet of rubber hose was taken from the Way-Lo Gas Station, 1129 Clinton Ave., sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 5:30 p.m. Sunday. The rubber hose was described by sheriff's deputies as being the connection between the pumps which rings a bell when cars pull in.

Other sections of the hose was cut up in pieces, bring the total theft and damage to $15.

A new, green, three-speed bicycle owned by Donald Landrum, Blackstone Ave., was taken sometime between 12 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 a.m. Sunday, police reported.

The bike had been parked outside the H and H bar on Court Street and was valued at $79.

Ten gallons of gasoline was siphoned from a car owned by Roscoe VanDyne, 830 N. North St., sometime between 9 p.m. Friday and 8:20 a.m. Saturday while it was parked in a carport at the VanDyne residence. Police are investigating.

The Williamson auto struck the Haines car in the rear while the two cars were exiting from the Washington Square Plaza parking lot onto S. Elm Street.

SHERIFF

SUNDAY — 9:15 p.m. — Gravel on Mills Road, two-tenths of a mile south of Robinson Road, caused a motorcycle operated by Ronald E. Bays, 19, Culpepper Trace Rd., to spin out of control and throw him off.

He was unhurt, but the motorcycle was moderately damaged.

2:30 a.m. — Moderate damage was done to a car driven by Lonnie L. Wilson, 21, Jeffersonville, when he swerved to miss a dog and struck a Dayton Power and Light Co. utility pole.

The mishap occurred on Ohio Rt. 41, 250 feet north of Carr Road.

1:20 a.m. — A South Solon man was charged by sheriff's deputies with driving while intoxicated after he failed to negotiate a sharp left curve on Pleasant View Road, nine-tenths of a mile north of Upper Jamestown Road, and struck a telephone pole and a fence owned by Roscoe Straley, Jeffersonville.

The mishap did moderate damage to the car which Joseph E. Powers, 31, was driving at that time.

Woman, 100, has highball for party

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Lyde Catherine McKnight Schuh exercises every day, kicking her legs, walking quite a bit. "I don't want to get helpless," she told wellwishers Sunday, her 100th birthday.

"Know what I eat for breakfast?" she asked an interviewer. "Toast and onions. They kid me about that."

She also explained that despite a white cake with pink roses and the 100 pink candles with which her grandchildren decorated it, "I don't care for ice cream and cake. I prefer apple pie."

She also doesn't care for punch; she had a highball instead.

She remembered getting up at 2:30 a.m. to fix breakfast for her husband when he worked in a bakery.

She also remembered a weeklong trip up the Ohio Canal from Philadelphia to Cleveland. "We'd get out and walk at various towns," she said. "Akron had 22 locks as I remember."

"But there's nothing much to write about me," she said. "Nothing interesting ever happened."

4 Buena Vista youths arrested

Four Buena Vista youths, ages, 15, 13, 13, and 11, were arrested by Deputy Charles Wise, of the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, Saturday and charged with breaking and entering and criminal trespass.

An investigation by sheriff's deputies and Sheriff Don Thompson into a report of a breaking and entering incident at Blue Rock stone quarry, U.S. 62-S, led to the arrests of the juveniles.

Two of the buildings at the stone quarry had been entered and 40-50 pounds of copper wire and other miscellaneous items stolen. Total value of the stolen merchandise was estimated at $60.

The youths were released to their parents.

WOMAN DRIVES TANKER — Sandy Moser, a gasoline tanker driver for Atlantic Richfield Co., poses beside the rig she drives between Seattle and Bellingham, Wash. She is a 35-year-old mother of three and has been driving the rig for nearly seven months after she found herself the sole support of her family.

No shortage of speeders' alibis

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Excuses. Excuses. Excuses. Almost every motorist has a "valid" one when nabbed for exceeding stricter speed limits imposed because of the energy crisis.

Newspaper reports indicate that magistrates across South Africa listen more or less patiently these days to alibi after alibi: "My accelerator jammed;" "My children were sick at home;" "I didn't know I was in a built-up area;" "I wasn't used to using an automatic car."

"I felt a little too jubilant," a Pretoria student explained after being caught speeding the way home after dusk to dawn and all day Saturday and Sunday. Motor racing, power boating and private flying have been curtailed.

Spot fines and automatic "admission of guilt" fines for speeding infractions have been discontinued in favor of mandatory court appearances in all but exceptional cases.

This has led to several cases of motorists caught speeding far from home having to burn lots of gas making a court appearance some days later back in the community where the cops pounced.

Speed limits of 50 m.p.h. in the country and on freeways and 31 m.p.h. in urban areas were imposed last November. The city speed restriction was later upped to 37 m.p.h.

Prime Minister John Vorster called for strict observance of these top speeds as a matter of national urgency when, after several weeks, it seemed that an increasing number of drivers were applying unlawful pressure on their accelerators.

HIS PLEA was made before Michel C. Botha, a senior member of Vorster's cabinet, was allowed to pay a $75 admission of guilt fine in the small community of Grabouw without making a court appearance for driving 12 m.p.h. faster than the limit in his private car.

"It seemed pointless to require a busy man like a cabinet minister to waste a day traveling to attend a court case," said one official after Botha's case became public. "I want to emphasize, though, that Mr. Botha was not given any special treatment."

Court records indicate most speed demons in the Johannesburg area have been fined about $52 in routine cases. Magistrate T.B. Maxted dealt with 131 cases one day. All pleaded guilty and their fines totaled $5,818. Sometimes the excuses are accepted, other times not.

A magistrate in Roodepoort decreased the fine on one woman driver and congratulated her on her "remarkably fresh" statement. She told the court: "I have no stories, your honor."

$43.10 for family of 4 given as food cost weekly

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures today show it cost a family of four at least $43.10 per week to eat in February even if it scrimped on meat and served plenty of beans and potatoes. The figure was $8.10 higher than a year ago.

The increase was for a so-called low-cost food budget compiled by the Agriculture Department. Although its

Utility service being restored in Xenia area

The Dayton Power and Light Co., said today it has been able to restore gas service to all but 200 customers in the Xenia area following a devastating tornado last Wednesday.

Dal Foreman, supervisor of public information with the company's Dayton office, said some of those 200 customers are presently living with friends and relatives in the area and DP&L has requested that they return to their homes in order that gas service can be restored. Foreman said the persons should contact the Xenia DP&L office after returning to their homes and a serviceman will be dispatched immediately.

DP&L crews have been working in Xenia around the clock since Thursday morning. Foreman said about 6,500 utility customers were affected, but that figure does not include the 2,000 homes that were completely destroyed.

Policemen hurt in apprehension

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Two police officers suffered minor injuries today when a stolen North Olmsted police car crashed into their cars after a chase on the Ohio Turnpike at up to 115 miles an hour, officers reported.

Police said the patrol car was stolen shortly after midnight. They said the driver sped east along the turnpike, tried to leave at the Akron exit, and smashed into a guard rail, an Ohio Highway Patrol car and two other police cars before stopping.

Archivist addresses Genealogical Society

Approximately 75 persons attended the South Central Ohio Genealogical Society meeting Sunday afternoon at the Carnegie Public Library.

Lowell M. Volkel, chief archivist of the Illinois State Archives, was the speaker. His topic was the early settlement of Illinois and how to find Ohioans who had moved to Illinois. He touched on where many types of records pertaining to Illinois history and genealogy could be found.

Guests of the society came from as far away as Portsmouth, Warren and Union City, Ind., for the meeting. Refreshments were served under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Richard Rankin. George Robinson Jr., is president of the group.

Mass murder trial delay being sought

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Defense delaying moves were expected at a pretrial hearing today of 17-year-old Elmer Wayne Henley, accused of six of 27 homosexual murders discovered last August in Houston.

District Court Judge Preston Dial says he wants "to tie up any loose ends" and set a trial date for summer.

But Will Gray, Henley's lawyer, said he would be ready with a long list of motions, including one to move the trial out of San Antonio because of publicity.

It was transferred here from Houston for the same reason on a motion by District Court Judge William Hatten during a three-week pretrial hearing in January.

Gray, who filed a blizzard of motions during the Houston hearing, said he will follow a similar strategy here.

He said his strategy includes a motion to dismiss the indictment because of alleged prejudicial conduct by prosecutors and arresting officers, and a motion to delay because defense psychiatrists have not completed their reports.

Dial says the hearing should take a week. Gray says two weeks.

Henley and David Owen Brooks, 19, were indicted for murder after they led officers to the 27 bodies buried in three locations in and around Houston.

The state alleges that Henley and Brooks procured young men for Dean A. Corll, 33, who homosexually tortured them. The state says the two youths killed some of the victims and helped dispose of their bodies.

Henley said he killed Corll at his Pasadena home last Aug. 8 after an all-night sex and paint sniffing party. The shooting was ruled self defense.

DOUBLE TROUBLE — Jeffersonville firemen fought this fire at the John Blair residence, Garringer-Edgefield Road in Jefferson Township, at 2:50 p.m. Saturday. At 3:09 p.m. Sunday, firemen were back. The house had re-ignited and this time it was allowed to burn to the ground. Jeffersonville firefighters were assisted the first time by the Sunday. Blair had insurance.

Claim world leaders stand behind Nixon Foreign policy injected into Watergate defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has elevated foreign policy into a major part of its Watergate defense, maintaining that Nixon's continuation in office is considered essential by most world leaders.

The crucial role played by Nixon in insuring international progress was portrayed by high White House officials following the President's return from Paris Sunday.

Alexander M. Haig Jr., Nixon's chief of staff, said the weekend in Paris for a memorial service honoring the late French President Georges Pompidou was encouraging in several ways.

"It was very evident that European leaders and world leaders with whom the President met continued to look to the United States and President Nixon as an essential factor in...efforts to develop a structure for a stable international environment," he said.

Other officials told reporters on Nixon's plane during the return from Paris that the world leaders clearly want the President to stay in office because they feel a rapport with him.

These officials said many other international leaders also have domestic problems, although of a different character.

Because of this empathy, Nixon is admired for what they believe is his courage, and is deeply respected because they say he continues to function effectively in world matters.

The meetings described by Haig involved the chiefs of state of Japan, France, the Soviet Union, West Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Italy.

Before returning to the United States and an overnight stay at his Camp David, Md., retreat, Nixon held two important meetings Sunday in Paris.

The first was a two-hour breakfast with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, at which the Nixon's June trip to Moscow was discussed.

Haig said the meeting "confirmed that both sides have set the preliminary stages for finite and real accomplishments," during the June summit.

Both sides, he said, "are very optimistic...there will be positive results in the areas of trade, technological exchanges, and certainly" in nuclear arms limitations.

But Haig refused to provide details, saying it was too early to discuss such matters in depth.

The other Sunday meeting was with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. According to Haig, the one-hour session with Tanaka dealt with the Japanese relationship to the United States and the Atlantic Alliance.

Controversy erupts over housing for tornado victims

By The Associated Press

A controversy developed Sunday in the Cincinnati area over government mobile homes promised last week for tornado victims by U.S. Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio.

Residents of South Road in suburban Bridgetown said they could get no information from either the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration or the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department.

John Jodice, one of about 100 residents who lost homes to last Wednesday's tornadoes, said "Clancy promised those trailers last week. What's the deal?"

Clancy could not be reached Sunday. A Clancy aide had said 1,600 mobile units were available at Richmond, Ky.

Jodice said most residents wanted to stay on their property to protect against looters. He said some had already rented trailers "but the cost is too high."

Green Township trustees, meanwhile, prepared a resolution for Monday that would permit trailers in the township for a year.

The FDAA regional headquarters in Dayton reported it "is not our decision. It's HUD's."

A spokesman at the HUD regional office in Cincinnati said "no decision has been made. It is made by FDAA."

At Richmond, Ky., Leo McGinn, FDAA officer who said he knew little about a stockpile of mobile homes, blamed local Ohio authorities.

He said FDAA is responsible for getting mobile homes into a disaster region and for paying for utility hookups. But state and local governments have the responsibility for preparing the sites.

"Any delay in getting mobile homes onto the site is not because the homes aren't available but because the sites aren't prepared," he said.

The FDAA prefers use of existing housing and mobile homes are "last priority," McGinn said.

'Political dirt' hunt widespread

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret task force to compile intelligence reports on President Nixon's political enemies was set up inside the Internal Revenue Service within months of Nixon's becoming president, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker said today.

Weicker presented a documentary history of the special unit to three Senate subcommittees. He also disclosed a flood of new details on how, he said, the White House used government opponents in the United States and overseas.

Weicker said that by the time the special unit was dismantled in August 1973 it had amassed intelligence files on 10,000 American taxpayers which contained 12,000 classified documents, the Connecticut Republican said.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, produced other documents which he said showed the IRS had been used repeatedly by that time to harass political opponents of the administration.

"When that situation exists in the country obviously something smells," Weicker said. "It is a provision of the American constitutional system."

Weicker read non-stop from a huge pile of documents, many of them supplied by former White House counsel John W. Dean III, in a session which was virtually a repeat of the Watergate hearings of last summer.

Earlier, Weicker said detective Anthony T. Ulasewicz probed the private lives of more than a dozen senators and other political figures in 50 separate investigations during Nixon's first term.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, said he has obtained White House files showing the full scope of the activities of the former New York City detective, who told the panel last summer his primary mission at the White House was to probe allegations of "political dirt."

The Connecticut Republican said he also has uncovered White House

memos showing the "improper and perhaps illegal use of actual tax return information, both of individuals and of organizations."

He was to testify on his findings today at a hearing convened by three Senate subcommittees investigating the extent of political spying by the federal government.

Weicker said that among the records he has obtained are memos showing the White House obtained from the Internal Revenue Service "sensitive case files" on a large number of individuals, including several prominent entertainers.

The list includes the names of Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr., both of whom endorsed the President's 1972 re-election campaign.

It also includes the name of California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Others on the list provided by Weicker are comedian Jerry Lewis, actors Peter Lawford, Richard Boone and Fred MacMurray and comedienne Lucille Ball and her husband, Gary Morton.

Weicker said he also has documents to confirm that the White House used IRS tax data "to protect friends of the White House, such as evangelist Billy Graham and actor John Wayne."

The Ulasewicz investigations, Weicker said, included background probes into the lives of the most politically prominent Democrats who contended for their party's 1972 presidential nomination.

These include Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; New York City Mayor John F. Lindsay; and Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Documents released at the time of the Watergate hearings showed Ulasewicz, working out of the White House but on the payroll of Herbert Kalmbach, then President Nixon's personal lawyer, conducted his own investigation of Kennedy's role in the drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The memos indicated he discovered no useful information.

Weicker said the list of Ulasewicz investigative targets also included at least two Republicans, Sens. George Murphy, R-Calif., who was defeated for re-election, and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., an opponent of Nixon administration war policies in Vietnam.

Other Senators identified by Weicker as having been investigated by Ulasewicz are William Proxmire, D-Wis.; John Tunney, D-Calif.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Albert Gore, D-Tenn.; and Joseph Tydings, D-Md. Both Gore and Tydings were defeated for re-election.

Prime rate 10 per cent

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers Trust Co. of New York, the nation's seventh largest commercial bank, announced today that it was raising its prime lending rate to 10 per cent, reaching a record level set late last year.

The bank said the rise from 9 1/2 per cent was dictated by its current lending rate formula, which ties the bank's prime rate to the cost of the short-term funds which it needs to operate. Those short-term rates have risen sharply in the past week, the bank said.

The move to 10 per cent by Bankers Trust follows the adoption of a 9 3/4 per cent prime by most major commercial banks last Friday.

IRS may probe fraud on Nixon taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Internal Revenue Service has indicated that the IRS still may be investigating whether the preparation of President Nixon's tax returns for recent years involved fraud.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander confirmed Sunday a White House statement that no basis had been found for bringing such a charge against Nixon personally.

But when asked if charges might be leveled against those who helped prepare the tax returns, Alexander responded during a televised interview: "I can't comment on what action the IRS and others may be or may not be taking with respect to others."

The White House announced last week that President Nixon would pay the full IRS-stipulated total of $432,787.13 in unpaid taxes, plus interest, for the years 1969-72.

In Los Angeles, Nixon's tax lawyer Arthur Blech said that the President would be entitled to a deduction of about $125,000 for the year in which he pays the 1969 taxes. Blech said Nixon is legally unobligated to pay the money because the statute of limitations has run out for that tax year. When paid, it could be considered a charitable contribution.

Alexander, interviewed on CBS's "Face the Nation," said it is possible but "I think it's quite unlikely" that the President may not have to pay any income tax for 1974 because of various deductions, including half of the some $32,000 in interest due on his back taxes payment.

Alexander was questioned about reports the White House had been sent information on particular tax returns. He confirmed that "certain sensitive case reports...were apparently forwarded to the White House."

But he said "there was no continuing pattern" and added that he has not sent out any such reports since becoming IRS chief.

Concerning a deduction in Nixon's 1974 income tax, Blech noted that the gift to the government of money owed for 1969 would be deductible up to 50 per cent of Nixon's adjusted gross income. This would enable him to write off about $125,000.

"The man is entitled to the deduction," Blech said. "Whether he will elect to use it is another question. He may decide it's not wise to have a year where he doesn't pay any income tax."

Blech said the IRS is allowing Nixon an extension on filing his 1973 tax return because the return must be reworked following the IRS ruling on the back taxes.

Alexander was questioned about the $100,000 Hughes contribution following published reports indicating former Nixon attorney Herbert G. Kalmbach had testified privately that C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo told him in confidence Rebozo had passed on portions of the money to the Nixon brothers and Miss Rose Mary Woods.

Rebozo previously has said he kept the entire amount locked up for three years before returning it to the Hughes organization.

CBS newsmen Daniel Schorr said he had learned the IRS became aware of the Hughes contribution more than two years ago, that Rebozo was questioned about it in April 1973 and that the investigating agent concluded then that Rebozo's account was truthful.

Alexander refused to comment.

In other developments: —House Minority Leader John B. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he believes Nixon was not treated "with even-handed justice" on the tax issue before the congressional panel issued a staff report last week. He said the President's attorneys should have been allowed a chance to argue against the findings.

—The panel, the Joint Committee on

Final report pending

'Justifiable homicide' ruled in WCH shooting

The fatal shooting of an escapee from Franklin County by Washington C.H. Patrolman Mike Stritenberger March 27 has been ruled "justifiable homicide" by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

A hearing to determine the facts surrounding the shooting was held Saturday in the City Office Building with Dr. Gebhart presiding.

After hearing testimony from six witnesses and receiving an oral report of the results of the autopsy, the coroner ruled that the fatal shot was fired under justifiable circumstances and that the escapee, Doyle Manning, 35, of Indianapolis, Ind., had in fact died of the bullet wound.

Testifying at the hearing were Franklin County Sheriff's Deputy Milton Cramer; Washington C.H. Police officers Larry Walker, William Robinson, and Stritenberger, dispatcher Joe Downs, and Sheriff's Deputy William Crooks.

MANNING and three others had overpowered Cramer while enroute to Columbus from the Lucasville penitentiary and had fled in stolen automobiles. They were sighted by Sgt. Crooks on Old Chillicothe Road and he began pursuit.

One car crashed outside Washington C.H. and its two occupants were taken into custody by Crooks.

The other car continued into Washington C.H. Officers Stritenberger and Robinson spotted the car near the downtown area and gave chase. The auto stopped in an alley and the two escapees fled on foot, followed by Stritenberger.

President signs wage measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a bill that will bring the minimum wage to $2.30 an hour for millions of American workers by Jan. 1, 1978.

Nixon signed the measure at his desk in the Oval Office, with Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan seated alongside.

In a White House statement, Nixon said, "Although I have some reservations about portions of this legislation, its basic purpose — to increase the minimum wage for working men and women of this country — deserves the support of all Americans."

Manning turned and fired twice at point-blank range at Patrolman Stritenberger who then dropped into a crouched position and returned one shot, striking the fugitive in the face. Manning died instantly.

ONE POINT brought out at the hearing was that the escapees apparently had keys to their own handcuffs when they left Lucasville. Testimony by Deputy Cramer disclosed that the men had their hands free when the first move to escape started.

The key was believed to have been hidden in the hollowed heel of Manning's shoe.

The matter of how they got the key and how they were able to conceal it is of great concern to the numerous law enforcement agencies which were involved.

Central State hit by blaze

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Fire raced through a floor of the student union building at tornado-torn Central State University here today before being extinguished, the Ohio National Guard reported.

A guard spokesman said there were no reported injuries from the blaze, which raged for about 40 minutes.

The spokesman said the fire broke out about 10 a.m. and the 25-30 persons in the building were immediately evacuated.

There were reports from firemen at the scene the blaze was touched off by a malfunctioning heater on the building's second floor. They said the fire was confined to the second floor.

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — The firm which built the Arrowhead section of Xenia, where a tornado touched down Wednesday and destroyed some 300 homes, announced today it will rebuild those houses.

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Loyal Order of Moose in Ohio have issued a call for non-perishable foods and infant supplies like cribs and blankets for victims of last week's tornado here.

The supplies will be distributed from the lodge's warehouse near Xenia.

Mitchell-Stans trial enters eighth week

NEW YORK (AP) — The criminal conspiracy trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans enters its eighth week today.

The two former cabinet members are charged with attempting to block a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation into the international financial empire of Robert L. Vesco in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The trial recessed Friday for the weekend after hearing testimony from Edward C. Nixon, the President's 43-year-old brother.

Nixon was the first witness for the defense.

He testified that, serving as an intermediary between Vesco and Stans, he made a cash-only request to Vesco.

The government had attempted to prove through its witnesses that it was Stans who demanded the contribution be in cash in order to keep it secret.

Nixon took the stand Friday after United States District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi dismissed for lack of evidence one count of a 16-count indictment against Mitchell and Stans charging conspiracy, perjury and obstruction of justice.

The dropping of the one count for obstruction of justice reduced the maximum possible sentence upon conviction from 50 to 45 years against each of the former cabinet members.

The magazine said the panel's decision followed "new and exhaustive" tests on the tape.

Sloan's role was described by Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein in excerpts from a forthcoming book printed in Playboy magazine.

Woodward and Bernstein said they first learned from Sloan the names of several key controllers of a secret GOP fund for financing campaign activities against the Democrats.

Queen Elizabeth 2 towed into Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — The crippled luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2 was towed into harbor here Sunday, and Cunard Line said it expects the ship to sail for New York by the end of the week, in time to make a scheduled transatlantic crossing on April 16.

Oil seepage into the QE2's boiler water system caused a power breakdown that forced the midocean evacuation of the ship's more than 1,600 passengers last Thursday 250 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Hearsts slip away quietly to ponder future actions

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Saying he wants "to get it together," Randolph A. Hearst has slipped quietly away to Mexico where he will consider what to do next to win freedom for his kidnapped daughter.

"He doesn't really want to be in this house and he doesn't know what to do, so he is going somewhere where he can think about it a little more," said nephew William Randolph Hearst III.

Meanwhile, American Indian Movement leader Dennis Banks said he has agreed to try contacting the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army to arrange a reunion for the Hearsts with their daughter Patricia.

"(Randolph Hearst) asked me if I would begin a national appeal to the SLA with hopes of arranging a meeting between AIM, Patty and the Hearsts," Banks said in a telephone interview from St. Paul, Minn.

"The idea was to see if she could be given a three-day pass, a 24-hour pass or a week pass so she could spend some

Golan Heights fighting worsens

By The Associated Press

Syria shot down an Israeli jet fighter over the Golan Heights front today and the two pilots who bailed out were captured in Lebanon, the Lebanese Defense Ministry said.

Israel confirmed that the plane went down, but denied that it was hit by a missile. The Tel Aviv command said the jet caught fire, apparently as a result of a technical fault.

It was the first Israeli plane lost over the Golan front since the October war. The Lebanese Defense Ministry said the plane, an F4 Phantom, crashed in the Arkoub region near the village of

Khadafy still Libyan strongman

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Sources in Libya say Col. Moammar Khadafy is still the country's strongman and has only given up ceremonial duties.

Diplomatic and government sources Sunday contradicted reports circulating elsewhere in the Middle East that the controversial Khadafy had been stripped of power in the oil-rich state.

Libyans were told Sunday that Khadafy had handed over some of his duties to Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud, confirming reports first circulated Saturday. But informed sources said the move would not reduce Khadafy's power as the country's leader.

"Khadafy is still our president, he's still our leader," a spokesman for the government news agency said.

A Western diplomat in Tripoli said: "It doesn't look like Khadafy's lost any power except handing over some functions, such as meeting and greeting dignitaries, to Jalloud."

Khadafy, who has ruled Libya since seizing power in a coup four years ago, is known to be disdainful of the protocol niceties normally required of heads of state.

He was reported in Tripoli and the capital was calm over the weekend, with no signs of unusual activity.

time with the family. After that she would be free to return to the SLA," he said.

Hearst, his wife, Catherine, and two of their five daughters, Virginia Bosworth, 24, and Anne Hearst, 18, departed before dawn Sunday and flew from San Francisco to La Paz, a fishing resort on the tip of Baja California, said the pilot of the jet chartered by the Hearsts.

The Hearst nephew said they would be gone four days but they would return immediately pending any new developments in the case.

"Randy said to me he's gone to regroup and kind of get it together and try to find out where he can go from here," the nephew said.

A family friend insisted the Hearsts were not headed for a rendezvous with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army, which claimed responsibility for dragging 20-year-old Patricia Hearst screaming from her apartment 63 days ago.

Chebba, only six miles north of the Israeli border. The village is about 39 miles south of Beirut.

A Lebanese spokesman said the two pilots were picked up near the village of Kraibe, about three miles west of Chebba. He said they were safe but would not say whether they were being held.

Lebanon holds two other Israeli Phantom pilots captured during the October war when they bailed out over Lebanon.

Syria said the plane was brought down "when an enemy formation penetrated our air space over Mt. Hermon." It also said its forces battled all night with Israeli troops trying to overrun Syrian positions on Mt. Hermon, but Israel denied this.

Artillery and tank fire blazed along the 40-mile Golan front for the 28th straight day.

Israel admitted using warplanes for the first time since the October war on Saturday. It said air strikes were ordered after the Syrians attacked an Israeli position on Mt. Hermon.

The Tel Aviv command said shooting erupted again today across the Golan truce line, and Israel's military command announced the first capture of a Syrian soldier since the October war.

An Israeli spokesman said Syrian guns and tank cannon resumed firing after sunrise, and artillery duels spread along the 40-mile front. He said no Israeli casualties were reported.

Israel claims it holds 387 Syrian prisoners of war and wants to exchange them for 65 Israelis held in Syria.

Skies should begin clearing over western Ohio Tuesday while the precipitation ends in the east. Highs were to be in the upper 30s and 40s.

High pressure following the low was to bring fair weather back Wednesday and a slow warming trend should have temperatures back to normal seasonal levels toward the end of the week.

Skies will be fair Wednesday, but a chance of showers will return to Ohio Thursday and Friday. A warming trend will continue with highs in the 50s and 60s Wednesday and in the 60s and 70s Thursday and Friday. Lows are forecast in the 30s Wednesday and in the 40s and low 50s Thursday and Friday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Surging interest rates dealt another body blow to the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.90 at 839.64, and declines overpowered advances by 4 to 1 in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Bankers Trust Co. of New York raised its prime lending rate today from 9 1/2 to 10 per cent, and other banks across the nation were expected to adopt 10 per cent rates soon.

Urges replacement of VA administrator

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic leadership in Congress has called for the replacement of Donald E. Johnson as administrator of the Veterans' Administration.

The call came in a nationwide radio address Sunday by Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., speaking on behalf of the leadership. Teague also called for replacement of other top management officials in the VA.

Teague said the VA had become a dumping ground for former campaigners for President Nixon. He said Nixon's orders for a crack management team to study complaints about the VA "will not solve the problems of VA."

Moving companies come under attack

The Minnesota Democrat said his bill will require moving companies to file reports on such items as delays in pickup and delivery, underestimated or overestimated charges and damage claims.

Pilgrimage made to air crash site

CHEDDAR, England (AP) — A sad pilgrimage to a Swiss mountainside sets out today from Cheddar, Axbridge and five other villages in the northern part of Somerset County.

The group includes 21 of the 40 survivors of the air crash last April 10 that left gaping holes in many Somerset families. The other 125 pilgrims lost mothers, wives or close friends when the chartered prop-jet overshot Basel airport in a blizzard and plowed into the mountain.

A total of 108 people died in the crash of the charter flight organized for a day of shopping in Basel.

Some of the pilgrims are going out to pray, others to see the mountain in spring so they can forget it in flames. Some plan to take the bus trip around Lake Lucerne that they didn't get to take the last time.

"I'm a bit worried about some of the survivors going on the trip," said

Lordstown strike comes to end

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Members of United Auto Workers Local 1714 returned to work Sunday night ending a three-day walkout at the Fisher Body fabricating plant here.

The 2,800 members ratified the new contract in a vote taken Sunday afternoon.

Terms of the agreement were not immediately available. George Metcalf, director of personnel at the Fisher Body plant, said the union made progress in seniority and working situations, "but I am not in a position now to disclose the details."

The strike forced the closing of the adjacent Vega assembly and truck assembly plants, affecting 5,000 more workers.

A spokesman for General Motors said that the workers at the Vega plant will not return to work today, because there is no backlog of sheet metal for the Vega operation. However, the spokesman said the workers at the truck plant will return to the job today.

Aussie airline co-founder dies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Sir Hudson Fysh, co-founder of Australia's international airline, Qantas, has died at the age of 79, a Qantas spokesman announced today.

The spokesman said Fysh died Saturday. The cause of death was not announced.

Fysh was managing director of the company from 1923 until 1955 and chairman from 1947 until 1968, when he retired.

State park equipment ready for Xenia use

Sixty pieces of heavy equipment have been moved to Cowan Lake State Park from other Ohio state parks and state forests for use in cleaning up tornado damage in the Xenia area, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reported today.

Some of the equipment was taken to the Central State University campus near Xenia to be used in clean up efforts there.

The remaining equipment will remain at Cowan Lake, about 20 miles south of Xenia, until officials in charge of cleaning up the city determine where they need it, said Rod Cooper, chief of DNR's division of parks and recreation.

The equipment includes dual-axle dump trucks, heavy-duty loaders, bulldozers, a crane, fuel trucks and other dump trucks.

"Making this equipment and its operators available is just part of the assistance the Department of Natural Resources is offering to the tornado-ravaged residents of Xenia," Cooper said.

About two dozen uniformed game protectors and wildlife law enforcement officers, some of whom were already in Xenia when the tornado hit Wednesday because the wildlife division district office is there, worked through the night to assist local law officers in security and patrol.

BEFORE the wildlife officers were sent home early Thursday for rest, 75 uniformed state park rangers moved in to assist in directing traffic and providing security for banks and public buildings that were still standing.

The park rangers included 63 enrolled in an eight-week ranger training school nearing completion at DNR's Lake Hope Environmental Resource Center in Zaleski State Forest.

Another 45 uniformed park rangers went to work in Xenia Friday morning to help guard against looting and to do other security work.

The state parks employees have set up a headquarters at Cowan Lake State Park, and are using 14 park cabins as housing.

The wildlife office in Xenia was not damaged but the office's two-way radio base station was knocked off

Margaret Tucker, secretary of the group that organized the memorial pilgrimage.

"People are getting very uptight as the anniversary date approaches. Most of them would never fly again. But not all."

Most of the group are making the trip by bus or train. A few are going by plane. Their destination is Hochwald, in the Jura mountains of Switzerland, where a monument to those who died in the crash will be unveiled on Wednesday.

The monument was built by donations from Britain and Switzerland on the mountainside farm belonging to the parents of Eric Voegtl, the 14-year-old boy who led the survivors down the blizzard-lashed slope after the crash.

"I'm not looking forward to the trip," said the Rev. Donald Denman, vicar of Cheddar, who will read the invocation. "I can't forget all those bodies laid out in that gymnasium. Some could only be identified by their wedding rings. For others, we had to wait until fingerprints were taken off the walls of their houses."

Boyle jury hears details of plot

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The hired killers of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski have been identified and the source of their payoff allegedly traced to the union treasury. The prosecution is now preparing to turn its efforts to link former United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle to the assassination plot of his union rival.

The 72-year-old Boyle is accused of three counts of murder in the Dec. 31, 1969, slayings of Yablonski, his wife and daughter as they slept in their rural Clarksville home in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague last week called 46 witnesses, including three confessed participants in the plot. Four other persons who have either been convicted or pleaded guilty to murder were brought into the courtroom and identified.

London blood collection chief restricts nonwhites

LONDON (AP) — A row has broken out over the refusal of the director of one of Britain's biggest blood collection centers to supply the blood of nonwhite donors for transfusions.

Dr. Dhani Prem, president of the Standing Committee of Asian Organisations in the United Kingdom, called for a government inquiry into the ban, imposed by Dr. Thomas Cleghorn, medical director of the center in north London.

Cleghorn, whose center is the only

EDWARD NIXON COMES TO COURT — President Nixon's brother, Edward, right, arrives at federal court in New York with an unidentified lawyer to testify in the Mitchell-Stans trial. He testified he told financier Robert Vesco a $200,000 contribution to his brother's 1972 campaign should be made in cash. The government has contended former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans specified the contribution should be in cash. Stans and former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell are accused of trading their influence for the contribution.

The prosecution alleges that during a meeting in mid-1969 Boyle ordered Yablonski killed and authorized $20,000 in union funds to pay the assassins. Boyle steadfastly denies this.

William J. Turnblazer, former president of the UMW's District 19 which includes Kentucky and Tennessee, is one of those reportedly present at that meeting in Boyle's Washington, D.C., office. Turnblazer is expected to testify possibly late today or Tuesday.

Turnblazer, 52, a Middlesboro, Ky., lawyer, pleaded guilty last September to charges of violating Yablonski's civil rights in connection with the killings.

In statements given to the FBI and Pennsylvania state police Turnblazer is quoted as saying that he met in June, 1969 with Boyle and Albert Pass, 52, one of 14 in the country with the ban, denied that it was racist. He said his tests have shown that nonwhite donors are more likely to be carriers of hepatitis, a disease with a high mortality rate if transmitted through blood transfusion.

"I have figures on which it would be medically improper not to act," he said.

Cleghorn said his center had about 30 nonwhite donors a week, and their blood is used for nontherapeutic purposes.

The Department of Health and Social Security has restrictions on blood donors, both black and white, who were born or lived for a long time in the tropical belt because malaria is endemic there. But it has no restrictions concerning hepatitis. A spokesman said the disease is not regarded as a serious enough threat in Britain to require special regulations.

But the spokesman said: "Dr. Cleghorn has total medical responsibility for the service in his area. As far as we are concerned, this is entirely a medical decision on his part."

Middlesboro, former secretary-treasurer of UMW District 19 and also an international board member from Alabama's District 20.

The meeting was held shortly after Yablonski, then a UMW vice president, announced his candidacy to oppose Boyle. And it was then, according to Turnblazer's statement, that the murder plot was hatched.

Yablonski lost his bitter battle by a 2-to-1 vote on Dec. 9, 1969. Three weeks later he was slain.

Arnold R. Miller, now UMW president, testified last week that Yablonski never conceded the election. Miller reported that he had called him at his Clarksville home and related a conversation he had with him the day after the election.

"He (Yablonski) said he was going to continue to fight," Miller said. "He said he was going to ask that ballots be impounded and that he was going to go to court."

Miller said that on Dec. 14, 1969, he met with Yablonski and many of his supporters in West Virginia and "the reaffirmed his position that he was going to continue his efforts to overturn the election."

Miller said that the action Yablonski began culminated in May, 1972, when a federal judge set aside the election on grounds of fraud.

Miller said he became the candidate against Boyle and defeated him in December, 1972.

A two-edged 'water diet'

Americans seem to have an insatiable appetite for diets. Sometimes it seems that the more gimmicky and bizarre a newly touted diet is, the greater the likelihood of its being given a whirl by people obsessed with losing weight.

No sooner has it been given out that, say, prune juice and egg yolk are the magic formula for slowness, than thousands stock up on these items and consume them with fanatical zeal - until the next fad comes along.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Could Billie Jean do it?

So the girls want to play Little League baseball. They have been winning the court decisions necessary to gain that right. But, as Lyndon Johnson used to say, I doubt that this particular dog will hunt.

Sooner or later the learned judges who want to abolish sex discrimination will have to refine their opinions of what constitutes a contact sport. As a ball fan who is also a parent, I have been through the mill of Little League baseball. Seven years of it, in fact. As a coach's helper I have watched some fairly tough operators try to instill the spirit of aggressive play in young fry.

My own memories go back to the time when Ty Cobb was rampaging through the American League, coming into second base with his spikes flashing. Cobb was brutal but legitimate; his spirit has been reincarnated today in the figure of the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose.

Bud Harrelson, the New York Mets' shortstop, could tell the little girls plenty about the difficulty of sidestepping body contact at second with a Pete Rose barreling into you in the required act of trying to break up a double play.

Somewhat I cannot see a female catcher blocking home plate, and I doubt that even Billie Jean King would want to risk being plunked in the ribs with a swift tag at third base. Baseball is contact, and it cannot be correctly taught except as a contact sport.

DOES IT MAKE ME a male chauvinist pig to suggest that girls lack a future in hard ball?

If I remember correctly, Alice Marble, who once ruled the roost in women's tennis, liked to go up to the Polo Grounds in New York City and shag flies during Giant practice.

Alice was a tough cookie, and I have no doubt that she had a good batting eye. But I remember those St. Louis pitchers who tried to commit mayhem on the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson along the first base line. The race prejudice against Robinson was ugly. But the art of contesting a base path without seeming to contest it long antedated the appearance of black players in the major leagues.

The Little Leaguer, if he is to go

These ruminations are prompted by a cautionary piece in the Journal of the American Medical Association about the so-called water diet. The publication expresses doubt as to the diet's efficacy, and at the same time notes that it may do harm to middle-aged dieters.

The diet in question involves cutting down on carbohydrates and drinking at least eight glasses of water daily. The AMA says tests show that following this regimen cuts weight, all right, but only temporarily. That questionable benefit is outweighed by another effect, an immediate rise in blood cholesterol levels.

The role of cholesterol in heart disease remains controversial, but a diet that increases this substance in the blood must be suspect. As the AMA Journal notes, "one must consider the potential effects of the prolonged or repetitive use of this diet by middle-aged persons who may have coronary artery disease."

Being slim and fit is desirable; no one denies it. But there are better ways of attaining this happy state than by playing around with one's blood cholesterol level.

kids around the bases on thefts, bunts and the hit-and-run game.

Contact is inevitable under his system; you don't bring home that crucial winning run if you aren't willing to crash into the catcher trying to make the tag at home plate.

Somewhere in the sports field the "separate but equal" doctrine applies. The learned judges haven't yet arrived at the point of ordering the schools to permit girls to become blocking backs, or to mix it with the six-footers-and-up gang that invariably takes over in basketball. The extremists in Women's Lib would no doubt break down the sex bars in football, wrestling and boxing.

But the women can't have it both ways. Do Billie Jean King and Chrissie Evert want to forego the big purses of the Virginia Slims female tennis circuit in favor of fighting for mixed tourney money against Rod Laver and John Newcombe, who don't happen to be middle-aged Bobby Riggses?

I leave it up to Billie Jean to tell the judges. Separate but equal has its place in sports.

Nolan claims court ruling was incorrect

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—James D. Nolan, a Democratic candidate for governor, said the Ohio Supreme Court did not read the law carefully when it ruled on Gov. John J. Gilligan's nominating petitions.

Thursday the court dismissed Nolan's suit charging that Gilligan could not file his petitions with a Cincinnati address.

"We pointed out to the Supreme Court that Gilligan had sold the house on Jan. 15, 1971-over three years ago," Nolan said Monday. "We were not contesting Mr. Gilligan's right to vote from that address, although highly dubious, but his affirming, under oath that the Taft Avenue address was in fact his true and legal post office address."

Nolan is Gilligan's only challenger in the Democratic primary.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

According to a news item the attorney general of Ohio states that he has no legal power to defend any Ohio official indicted for a crime. Either Ohio law is archaic or the attorney general assumes that any officer, officially employed by the State of Ohio and indicted for a crime is guilty without trial, without defense and without recourse.

This great State of Ohio? Have I heard of lawyer collusion in dealing with a clients rights? National Guardsmen were indicted some three years after the alleged crime in the Kent State affair. Is the attorney general running scared, or lazy, or just running? Are we living in the Dark Ages? Some of the contemptible acts carried on against all peace officers by rioters running rampant over college campuses during the 60s and the early 70s were despicable. Spitting in their faces, spraying them with human urine, painting them with human feces and throwing all kinds of missiles at them. These acts would be unbearable to take without shattering your mind, even if you had the fine disciplinary training of the Guardsmen.

We speak of environmental problems: The greatest environmental problem is lawless people. This problem is destroying our country. We can at least use a slogan coined by the environmentalist, "PITCH-IN", for the defense of the Guardsmen. This will make you feel better.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Boss should specify secretary's duties

DEAR ABBY: The other day you published a letter from a secretary who professed to like her job and her boss, but she complained about being sent on non-clerical errands, such as picking up other employees or shopping for the boss, too often. This wasn't part of the job, she said, and she resented doing it.

And yet it would seem to me that if the boss sends her on these errands, and she does it on company time, then they are, indeed, a part of the job and she does not have a legitimate complaint. I could see her gripe if she were expected to do all these things on her own time, but this apparently wasn't the case. The problem is simply that she thinks she's being paid for her typing, and the boss thinks she's being paid for her time. I tend to agree with the boss. So long as he is footing the bill, what does it matter whether the secretary is taking dictation or doing the boss' legwork?

MS. JONES
DEAR MS. J.: When one advertises for a typist, if "legwork" is part of the job, the applicants should be so advised. An employer does not buy "time"—he buys "talent, muscle, or specialized skill." A woman hired to do secretarial work shouldn't be expected to sit with the kiddies any more than a man hired to sell real estate should be expected to wax floors.

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on a talk show recently, and you were asked: At what age do you think children should be told the facts of life? You replied, "When they're old enough to ask they're old enough to know."

I agree with you. I'm with Planned Parenthood, and this morning we heard from a group of angry mothers in one school district who are fuming about our weeklong educational programs for 7th and 8th graders, so we've arranged to get the parents together so we can talk about it. By the time we're through those parents will be saying that they wish they had had this when they were kids. I know it will happen. It always does.

We have a slogan, "All obstacles can be turned into opportunities." It's true. Hang in there, Abby!

LYNN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR LYN: Education is the answer V.D., illegitimacy and irresponsible sex. Count me as another who wishes they had sex education in the schools when I was a kid. What people don't know CAN hurt them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Next Sunday is Easter. Please do not give a child a living gift unless he is old enough to care for it properly. Every year a shocking number of baby chicks, rabbits, kittens and puppies have been mauled, manhandled, smothered and neglected to death by children who have received them as Easter gifts, and who regard them as toys. Have a heart and give small children stuffed animals instead.

Today is Monday, April 8, the 98th day of 1974. There are 267 days left in the year.

On this date - In 1500, a French army, aided by Swiss mercenaries, conquered Milan.

In 1633, the Drury Lane theater opened in London.

In 1939, King Zog of Albania fled as Italian troops invaded his country.

In 1961, a referendum in France approved a peace settlement with nationalist rebels in Algeria.

Ten years ago ... a state funeral for General Douglas MacArthur, led by President Lyndon B. Johnson, was held in Washington.

Five years ago ... new fighting flared in the Middle East as the Big Four powers met in New York in search of a peace formula.

One year ago ... Pablo Picasso, a giant in the world of art, died at the age of 91.

Today's birthdays: Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia is 54. Tenor Franco Corelli is 51.

Day of mourning for Kentucky town

by KATHY PELLEGRINO
Associated Press Writer
BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — Cleanup operations were to resume today in this tornado-stricken Ohio River community, where residents paused Sunday to gather in a school gymnasium to honor the dead.

The process of digging through the rubble had continued most of Sunday also, despite the official declaration of the day of mourning for 30 who lost their lives when the tornado ripped through the Meade County community last Wednesday.

County Judge James Greer said all cleanup work halted briefly at 2 p.m.—the hour at which 1,800 gathered on bleachers at the Meade County High School gymnasium for the interdenominational funeral service.

Earlier in the day friends and relatives filed across the gym's canvass-covered floor to pay tribute at the 14 coffins that remained. Some victims had been buried earlier; others will be buried this week. One coffin held a mother and child.

All were honored in the ceremony conducted by a group of ministers representing the Nazarene, Baptist,

Methodist and Catholic faiths, who read a brief obituary for each of the dead. "Larry Edward Jupin. Born July 19, 1963. He is survived by..."

At one point the electricity failed. A stillness came over the gathering and the organist softly played "Faith of Our Fathers." The service resumed minutes later.

Flowers decked the coffins and the makeshift funeral parlor bore little resemblance to a gymnasium—except for the basketball goals raised high above the floor, scoreboards and the classroom-type chairs used to support the rope that cordoned off a seating section for immediate families of the victims.

A chaplain from nearby Ft. Knox read the list of dead. "The roll of the honored dead. Peggy Williams..."

The single service for the community's victims was set after local ministers and officials agreed a succession of services and funeral processions would add to the community's misery.

"It would have prolonged the thing," said Greer. "And it would be agonizing."

Workers from the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County lent a hand in tornado-ravaged Xenia over the weekend.

Eugene Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the state highway garage here, said four trucks and eight men were dispatched to the stricken area Friday and Saturday.

The workers hauled debris and assisted with chain saws while Xenia residents continued to search for personal belongings. The state highway workers labored until about 9 p.m. Friday and until 7 p.m. Saturday.

Fitzpatrick said the crews will not return to the Greene County city until further notice.

State highway workers, meanwhile, are preparing for the annual spring inspection of equipment. The inspection will be held at 10 a.m.

Pope urges youth to abandon protest forms

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has urged Roman Catholic youth to abandon fashionable forms of protest and, instead, support "some militant organization in the fields of action, piety or charity."

The pontiff, in a Palm Sunday rite in St. Peter's Basilica, also urged Catholic youth "not to be ashamed and run away when showing ourselves to be Christian makes others despise us."

The 76-year-old Pope spoke in a firm voice from his papal throne and looked well after two bouts of illness last month.

After the ceremony in the basilica, the Pope went to his apartment in the Vatican's Apostolic Palace and from a window blessed a crowd of 30,000 gathered in St. Peter's Square.

Officers slay man

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — Donald Seyler Jr., 19, Austinburg, was shot to death by officers after he began firing at authorities who tried to arrest him for a traffic violation Sunday, the Ashtabula County Sheriff's department said.

Tuesday, April 16.

Also on the work schedule is a crack sealing project on Ohio 734, just west of Jeffersonville, berming and ditching projects, according to Fitzpatrick. He said trash crews will also be in operation.

GENERAL maintenance projects

will be occupying workers from the city street department this week, according to Bill Duncan, general foreman.

Duncan said the workmen will be sealing streets in various locations throughout Washington C. H. and clearing brush from the banks along Paint Creek.

Three drainage projects will be handled by county road crews.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said drainage projects have been scheduled for Sollars and McKay roads in Concord Township and Washington-Waterloo Road. He said the crews will also be repairing a section of Jamison Road and installing culverts.

'Legend of Easter Flowers' presented by Mrs. Perrill

Members of the Fayette Garden Club were welcomed to the home of Miss Norma Dodd for the April meeting. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Homer Garringer and Mrs. Hugh Smith. Mrs. John G. Jordan offered devotions: calling to mind the worlds of Solomon and prompting one to realize that the "New Life", sunshine and rain of spring holds promise and hope for all.

Guest speaker, Mrs. Howard Perrill, presented a most informative program on "The Legend of Easter Flowers." She used each letter of the word "Easter Flowers," as a vehicle for her presentation.

Something significant of Easter was brought to mind with each letter. For example, the 'L' is significant of the legends of various trees and flowers; the dogwood was once a tall sturdy tree until it was used as the cross at Christ's crucifixion. The hawthorne is said to weep on Maundy Thursday because it was used to make Christ's crown of thorns' the aspen is said to quiver and tremble because it was considered for use as the cross. The lily of the valley are symbols of Mary's tears; anemone is said to have bloomed profusely at the base of the cross, thus its leaves are touched with bloodstains. Palm branches are the symbol of peace; the dandelion denotes the bitter root of passion and the laurel is the symbol of victory.

Mrs. Perrill placed particular emphasis on the Easter lily, its origin, its beauty and symbolism. This she presented in a most unique fashion by a talking lily. The talking lily and a lovely water color of lilies were presented as gifts to the garden club members whose birthdays were nearest to the meeting date. Mrs. Lawrence Lehman and Mrs. Robert M. Meriweather were the winners.

The club presented Mrs. Perrill with a china tea cup filled with daisies and sweetheart roses in appreciation for her program.

Mrs. Meriweather conducted the business session, when Mrs. Maryon Mark reported on the county-wide garden club workshop held recently at the Fish and Game Lodge, when sand candles and sand-castings were made.

Mrs. C. S. Kelley reported that seven members of the Fayette Garden Club attended an open meeting of the Posa Garden Club. The afternoon was spent learning and observing the art of pebble painting.

The club voted to give financial aid to the tornado victims of Wentz Rd.

Mrs. John Weade suggested Easter cards be sent to the club's shut-ins.

Plans are being made to attend the Region 16 Spring Meeting April 18 and the registration fee is $4.00. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Kelley no later than Tuesday.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Edwin Thompson at 1:30 p.m. May 10. The speaker will be Howard Knutson, a most well known rose grower and judge.

The meeting was concluded with a seed exchange.

Newlywed couple to reside in Maryland

Miss Susan Elaine Armbrust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Armbrust, 5128 Locust Grove Rd., became the bride of Neil Richard Swayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer C. Swayne, Rt. 2, McDermott. The Rev. Charles J. Richmond performed the double-ring ceremony in South Side Church of Christ, March 23 at 4:30 p.m.

Two seven-branch candelabra entwined with greenery and yellow bows, and a large pedestal basket of white mums and yellow poms graced the altar. Yellow satin bows marked the family pews.

Traditional wedding selections were played on the organ.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white silk organza with Schiffli embroidery in white and green. The empire embroidery sheer yoke had a jewel neckline. The train sleeves were trimmed with embroidery, as was the gathered skirt. The chapel length detachable train also had embroidered motifs, and the chapel length illusion veil was held in place with a lace profile. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sharon K. Coulter of Chillicothe, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a gold chiffon gown with empire waist edged with gold, coral and green embroidery. The gown had a Peter Pan collar, Bishop sleeves and gathered skirt. She carried a colonial cascade of butterscotch and yellow daisies.

Don B. Swayne of Hillsboro, served as best man for his brother. Seating the wedding guests were E. Frank Armbrust and Rodger H. Armbrust, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Armbrust, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Swayne, the groom's mother, each wore a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses, as did the grandmothers.

Hostesses for the reception held in Fellowship Hall at the church were the Misses Diana Sue Melvin and Debbie Merritt. Mrs. Robert Melvin presided at the guest registry.

The new Mrs. Swayne, a recent graduate of MATA College in Columbus, attended Miami Trace High School. Her husband, a 1968 graduate of Northwest High School and Bell and Howell School, is employed at Bendix Corporation in Columbus, Md., where he is an electronics technician.

The couple is residing in Columbia, Md., following a trip through the Smokey Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Armbrust were hosts for the rehearsal dinner at the church on Friday evening.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — An obscure television producer, Everett Scrimshaw, of Bumfudgeon, Fla., announced today the creation of a new awards program to honor the best awards shows on TV this year.

"It's called the first annual 'Award Awards' show," he said. "It covers all categories — the Oscars, the Emmys, the Tonys, the Grammys and whatever else comes up."

Scrimshaw, who recently got his own award as the outstanding escapee of the Bumfudgeon Home for the Weird, was asked how he came upon the unique idea of the Award Awards.

"I was drinking," he said.
And, he added, "it struck me, as did my wife, that even with all these awards shows on TV, nobody's ever really paid tribute to the people who make them what they are."

Scrimshaw declined to say with whom he's negotiating for the TV rights to the Award Awards show. He said it'll be broadcast from the new Bumfudgeon Civic Center right after the Halloween sock hop.

"It'll be a black-tie affair," he emphasized. "There's enormous interest in it. Snidely Foon, the haberdasher here, already's having a run on boiled dickies."

Americans divided on abortion

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The American public remains almost evenly divided in the abortion controversy, according to the Gallup Poll.

In the latest survey, taken last month, adults in more than 300 towns throughout the country were asked: "The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that a woman may go to a doctor to end pregnancy at any time during the first three months of pregnancy. Do you favor or oppose this ruling?"

Of 1,582 adults surveyed, 47 per cent expressed approval, while 44 per cent said they opposed it. Nine per cent had no opinion.

A similar poll in December 1972, taken before the Supreme Court ruling, showed 46 per cent in favor and 45 per cent opposed.

The polling organization said little change had occurred in the attitudes of major population groups between the surveys. In both surveys, more men than women favored abortion privileges. Catholics continued to oppose them by about two-to-one, and Protestants remained slightly in favor of them.

In the latest poll, 51 per cent of the men and 43 per cent of the women expressed approval, while 38 per cent of the men and 49 per cent of the women were opposed.

The poll found sharp differences based on education. Persons with college educations favored abortion privileges 67 per cent to 27 per cent against. Of those whose educations stopped with high school, 44 per cent approved and 48 per cent disapproved. Among those with grade school educations, 25 per cent approved and 57 per cent disapproved.

Back in the real world, meanwhile, CBS has canceled the top-rated "Sonny and Cher" program, which premiered as a summer replacement in August 1971 and joined the regulars in December that year.

The cancellation is sad news, but industry observers noted the popular show was in trouble last February when its stars said they were cancelling their 9½-year marriage.

Fred Silverman, CBS' programming chief, wouldn't say if the marital rift was the reason the show was axed. "It's a very, very complicated situation," he said, declining to elaborate further.

He said a replacement program would be announced later this month when CBS makes public its fall program lineup.

A reminder for baseball fans: NBC is televising tonight's Atlanta-Los Angeles game live, preceded by a half-hour program about the highlights in the career of home run king Hank Aaron.

NBC says baseball authorities have lifted the television blackout of the game for Los Angeles, but not Atlanta, where the game will be held.

THE
LAWYER

Toy Gun

Grocer Hawkins put up no resistance as the youthful robber cleaned out his cash register. To Hawkins, the young man's pistol was all too real.

But in fact, the pistol was a toy. When the robber was later caught and brought to trial for "armed robbery," he insisted that the charge would not stand up.

"The simple truth is," he told the court, "that I was not armed at all. That gun I had couldn't hurt a flea."

Nevertheless, the court decided he was guilty as charged. The court said what mattered was not the actual character of the gun but the way it looked to the victim.

Most courts agree. That is, they view the holdup weapon "through the eyes of the beholder." They reason that the essence of the crime is putting the victim in fear, which can be done as effectively with a gun that only looks deadly as with one that really is.

THERE HAVE EVEN been cases of "armed robbery" in which the robber had no weapon at all. Thus: another holdup man terrified his victim merely by showing a menacing bulge in his coat pocket.

Yet, a court decided this was enough basis for a charge of armed robbery. The court said the fear that the robber had a gun, plus the fear that he might use it, was all that the law required by way of intimidation.

Still, the fear must be at least of physical harm — not of a lesser form of pressure. Suppose A says to B:

"Unless you hand over $500, I'll get you in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service."

If B pays off, A may be guilty of some offense — but not robbery. As one court put it:

"There can be no robbery without violence. The menace must be of a sort to excite reasonable apprehension of danger. Threat of prosecution for a crime is regarded as insufficient (because) a man in the hands of the law is not legally presumed to be in danger of bodily harm."

2,800 attend three-day Home Show

Nearly 3,000 persons attended the ninth annual Fayette County Home Show which was staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Fayette County Fairground.

Steve Reisinger, chairman of this year's show, said attendance figures for the three-day event reached 2,800.

Reisinger said this year's attendance count was about 800 below the previous year's figure of 3,600.

More than 400 persons braved wet, cold weather to attend the opening session of the Home Show Friday night, while 1,200 persons attended the vent both Saturday and Sunday, according to Reisinger.

Members of the Washington C.H. Chamber of Commerce Ambassador Club launched the event with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday night. A total of 37 exhibitors presented a variety of home furnishings, services and miscellaneous merchandise in booths located in the Mahan and Fine Arts buildings.

One of the highlights of the three-day Home Show was the awarding of grand prizes each of three days.

Leslie Lanum, of Washington C.H., won the $600 grand prize Sunday night and Brent Brown, of Bloomingburg, was the winner of a 25-inch color television set Saturday. A 10-speed bicycle was the grand prize for Friday's session and was won by Eleanor Herman, of Washington C.H.

In addition to the $600 cash prize, the color television and 10-speed bicycle, prizes donated by Home Show participants were awarded every half hour of the three-day event.

Reisinger said the weather was a factor in attendance Friday night. He said the Home Show also was competing with plays being staged at Miami Trace and Washington Senior high schools Friday and Saturday nights.

BEFORE COMMITTEE SESSION — Rep. Peter Rodino, left, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary committee, chats with counsel John Doar prior to a committee meeting on Capitol Hill. Rodino said a subpoena will be issued for White House tapes if necessary.

WCH tornado warning urged

A suggestion for developing an alert weather warning system for the Washington C.H. area was discussed by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners during the regular weekly meeting Monday morning.

James Dunn, executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber office has been receiving numerous inquiries concerning an alert warning system for the Washington C.H. area since a tornado devastated Xenia last Wednesday.

Commissioner Robert J. Mace said a siren to be used for disasters such as tornadoes is located in the bell tower atop the Courthouse building roof. He said the siren is about two feet wide and approximately three feet in height. The warning siren has not been used for several years, according to Mace.

A control switch for the warning siren is located in the Washington C.H. Police Department, it was pointed out during the discussion.

MACE SUGGESTED scheduling a meeting with city officials soon to conduct a test alert with the Courthouse siren.

The tornado-ravaged Xenia area was discussed informally by commissioners and board member Ray D. Warner pointed out that he feels that some assistance should be made available to residents on the Wentz Road near Milledgeville, where a tornado hit early last week, demolishing six mobile homes injuring nine persons.

Only routine matters confronted commissioners during the morning session. Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 34 dog reports for the week.

Commissioners were scheduled to meet with Jack Sanders, president of the Fayette County Pilots Association, at 3:30 p.m. today.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said at least two of the three commissioners will be attending the annual county commissioners seminar Tuesday and Wednesday in Columbus.

C. of C. slates week's activity

A breakfast meeting of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's executive committee Monday launched the week's activities schedule for the Chamber of Commerce, according to Fred L. Domenico, president.

Domenico said the executive committee prepared the agenda for the Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting. The board meeting will be held at 8 a.m. Thursday in the Chamber office.

John Lachat, chairman of the accreditation committee, has scheduled a meeting at 8 a.m. Tuesday in the Chamber office to review the Chamber of Commerce facilities and equipment.

The Downtown Business Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Chamber office. Ray Downing, chairman of the association, has indicated that planning and coordination for the Old Fashioned Bargain Days promotion will highlight the agenda for the meeting.

Domenico reminds all members that ballots for the election of new directors are due in the Chamber office by 5 p.m. Monday, April 15.

Energy pinch to cut farm sales

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The world energy situation may cause some countries to reduce purchases of U.S. farm products over the next year, the Agriculture Department said today.

But for now, USDA experts said, farm exports in the fiscal year beginning July 1 still are expected to be worth $17 billion to $19 billion. That estimate was announced several months ago and would be second only to the record $20 billion worth of farm commodities sold abroad this fiscal year.

The latest analysis was made in a series of reports published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service in "Foreign Agriculture," a weekly circular.

"Shortages and sudden price increases for energy that surprised the world last October have jolted agricultural production and trade at almost every level," Reed E. Friend, one USDA specialist wrote.

"Paralleling the situation at the farm level, where fuels and fertilizer are scarce and costly, political and economic repercussions are under way that could significantly alter present world trading patterns and growth trends," Friend said.

The task of estimating what might occur is so difficult, Friend indicated, that the energy crunch actually might keep global demand for U.S. farm products at a high level in the coming months.

For example, he said, some countries might step-up imports of feed grains, soybeans and other animal feed in order to increase self-sufficiency in livestock products.

But Friend said it was also possible that U.S. farm exports might be reduced as some countries experience sharp slowdowns in economic growth and reductions in consumer income.

"The changing value of the dollar — caused by the relatively low dependency of the United States on petroleum imports — has made U.S. goods some what more expensive on international markets," Friend said.

Another specialist, Spencer F. England, said a rise of 170 per cent in world oil prices since last fall "probably will not cause most developed countries to restrict imports of U.S. farm products this year" to solve balance-of-payments problems.

"But a small number of U.S. farm markets ... will be hardpressed to maintain currency reserves and could initiate measures to restrict farm imports," England said. That possibility exists in a few richer or "developed" countries and in many poorer "developing" nations, he said.

The richer countries most able to cope with high oil prices — and thus be in position to continue buying U.S. farm products — include Australia, Austria, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Spain and Switzerland, England said. Those countries bought 23.5 per cent of U.S. farm exports last calendar year.

Also, England said, another group — including Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Ireland, Japan, Norway and Sweden — will "find it difficult" to meet balance-of-payment deficits but are not likely to cut farm imports. Those took 21.8 per cent of U.S. shipments in 1973.

Hypertension cure seen through study

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — New studies on rats suggest a possible lead toward prevention and cure of "essential" hypertension, the most puzzling and by far the commonest form of high blood pressure.

Hypertension constitutes one of the nation's major health problems because it can lead to fatal heart disease and cerebral strokes.

"Essential" hypertension means high blood pressure of unknown cause. It is distinguished from high blood pressure arising from certain other conditions, such as kidney disease. About 19 million of the 23 million Americans who suffer from hypertension are afflicted with the "essential" type.

The prevailing theory points to changes in the automatic nervous system and certain glandular systems as the causes of "essential" hypertension.

But two researchers say their studies with four types of hypertensive rats indicate that "essential" hypertension may be caused instead by a metabolic defect in the smooth muscle of blood vessel walls.

M. Sarmir Amer and Gordon R. McKinney revealed the results of their studies today at the 58th annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The two said their work at the Mead-Johnson laboratories in Evansville, Ind., indicated the suspected biochemical blood vessel defect could lead to a whole new approach to treatment of high blood pressure. Doctors could prescribe drugs for treating the blood vessel defect rather than simply for lowering the blood pressure, they said.

Dr. Arthur Hayes Jr., head of hypertension research at Pennsylvania State Medical College at Hershey, Pa., pointed out that present drug treatment for "essential" hypertension is based on the nervous system/glandular concept. He explained it is designed only to lower the blood pressure without getting at any specific mechanism that might be triggering the hypertension itself.

"We often have to use multiple drugs with a high incidence of dangerous or annoying side effects," he said.

Endlessly honed and leveled by a succession of Ice Age glaciers, Denmark has prompted neighboring Norwegians, to tax the Danes with the comment: "If you stand on a box you can see the whole country."

R.A.F ENERGY DIET WITH VITAMIN "E" & "C" COMBO. SUPPLEMENT

LOS ANGELES (Special) The R.A.F diet has been found to give excellent results in weight loss when followed according to its simple instructions, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with reports of weight loss while still eating most of the foods you are used to. Those who follow the simple diet report a loss of weight without exercise or starvation. Best of all you can still eat regular foods such as steak, chicken, chops, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose unwanted weight. The Vitamin "E" & "C" Tabs used with the diet plan supply you with the M.D.R. which otherwise may be lost when following the R.A.F Diet Plan.

The use of the new Vitamin "E" & "C" Tabs and foods prescribed in the plan will through natural action, act to help your body keep fit and not suffer from hunger pangs. This is a solid, common sense diet plan — 100% safe — no unpleasant side effects.

A study of 900 obese persons confirms the value of the low carbohydrate diet and frequent small meals. Despite organized medicines insistence that calories alone are the key to losing weight, the research clearly shows that the source of the calories is equally important. Carbohydrate, says the medical researcher, is the "crucial determinant" regulating the degree of obesity. Supplementing the low carbohydrate diet with polyunsaturated fat (vegetable oil) increases the oxidation of stored fat (palmitate) by 20 to 25% — and that, says the paper, is the way to diminish excess weight.

Ohio Perspective

Job bureau given new image

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "stodgy, bureaucratic" state Bureau of Employment Services has changed its name to Ohio Job Services to improve its image.

"When you say Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, you say a mouthful," said Stan Wyman, agency spokesman. "When you say Ohio Job Services, it tells the whole story."

"We're dealing with jobs and people. The effect, we hope, will be positive identification."

Because of the imposing name, Wyman said many Ohio considered the bureau "stodgy and bureaucratic, and we agreed with them."

He said the federal government "came up with the idea of the name 'job services.' What we have done is taken their idea and adopted to our use."

The bureau has used the name along with the Ohio state flag on new red, white and blue signs, which have been going up in the three major metropolitan areas.

"We are replacing the signs as needed," Wyman said. "We haven't gone out and ordered a million, zillion signs. As the signs break or have to be replaced, we are ordering on that basis."

The signs, which cost about $150 installed, first went up at the bureau's seven new neighborhood offices in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati. Three more offices are planned, including one in Medina.

The new signs coupled with the neighborhood offices are an attempt to reach the people on the street, Wyman said. "When a guy on the street sees our sign and symbol, he knows what it's all about," he added.

Wyman said, "If a guy is looking for a job, he knows to come to us. If he's looking for employees, he knows to come to us. We think it's a hell of a good concept."

He said the bureau through its 120 offices in 79 counties placed 211,999 persons last year. The figure represented a 21 per cent increase in both agricultural and non-agricultural placements over 1972.

The bureau, which received all of its $30 million budget last year from the federal government, provides job placements free both to individuals and employers.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — Time and time again, Congress has been chastised severely for its role in the deficit spending process, primarily because of its affinity for authorizing expenditures of the taxpayers' money well beyond our budgetary means.

Considering the state of the economy these days, there are very few who could refute this statement.

One of my colleagues, in fact, recently investigated some of the effects this undisciplined spending in government can do. What he learned is that the federal government now spends $1,750 annually for every man, woman and child in the United States. He also estimated that if the present rate of deficit spending continues, in about 30 years the per capita spending will be approximately $15,000 per year.

In an effort to enforce morediscipline in the federal spending, however, Congress is now considering legislation which would establish the machinery for a congressional budget process. The Budget Control Act, now in a House-Senate conference, designs an appropriations process specifically geared to limiting government spending to the resources of the national income.

FIRST, a new budget committee would be created in both houses and a congressional office similar to the White House Office of Management and Budget would be established. The committee would play an important part in the new budget process which is geared not only toward avoiding deficit spending but also toward completing congressional actions on the budget within a specified time span.

Lately, for example, many of the major appropriations bills are approved well after the fiscal year for which they are designated has started. Continuing authorizations which keep spending at the same level as the previous year for the various agencies provide the operating expenses in the meantime, but the economic uncertainty and potential for wasteful spending they present have done nothing so far to alleviate our budgetary woes.

Moreover, the new budget committee system would end the old practice under which Congress provides for spending in more than a dozen appropriations and in other measures providing for automatic spending, such as Social Security benefits.

Instead, the bills would be considered comprehensively, not as though they were unrelated to each other and without thought as to whether there is enough money to finance them.

UNDER the House bill, the fiscal year would be changed from the present July 1 through June 30 schedule to an Oct. 1 through Sept. 30 period. Within this framework, the President would continue to submit a budget to Congress in January.

However, by the beginning of March, House committees would have to submit their views and recommendations on budget outlays and authority for their specific jurisdictions, on federal revenue levels and on the public debt ceiling limit.

Before April, all legislation authorizing new budget authority would have to be completed and appropriations bills would follow. By mid-September, Congress would then have to determine the final levels of revenue spending and debt for those appropriations in excess of the tentative budget.

That would leave two weeks to complete any remaining action on the budget before the end of the fiscal year, and Congress would not be allowed to adjourn until the final budget resolution and implementing legislation are enacted.

THE SENATE has passed similar legislation although several of the intermediate deadlines differ. If agreement can be reached on the proposal and the president signs it into law as he is expected to, the new budget system would go into effect in 1977.

The idea behind this congressional reform, however, does not have to wait until 1977 to go into effect. The sooner Congress stops appropriating money bit by bit with no thought to the overall impact on the budget the better.

Congress, and specifically the House of Representatives, has the constitutionally authorized "power of the purse", but unless it changes its spendthrift ways, even with the proposed budget reform, it will be a long, long time before Congress will ever be accused of fiscal responsibility.

Villagers on Golan Heights see death, barren spring

HARFA, Occupied Syria (AP) — Caught in the blazing artillery duel between Syrian and Israeli gunners on the Golan Heights, the villagers of Harfa are resigned to more death and a barren spring.

"This is the village of our fathers," said their chieftain, or mukhtar, Salman Yusef Atmat. "The October War has driven many other people away, but we were born here and we will die here."

Israeli forces captured the hilltop village of 1,000 during their advance toward Damascus 30 miles away. The front now runs about seven miles to the northeast.

"I think the Syrians are shelling us in vengeance for not evacuating the town during the Israeli advance," Atmat said.

As Atmat spoke, several shells shrieked over the town, sounding like the slow tearing of cloth. They blasted a nearby pasture, sending up a fountain of black smoke and rock. The acrid smell of cordite wafted into the mukhtar's stone house.

"There used to be the smell of flowers in April," he said. "Now there is only the smell of guns."

Atmat and his villagers are Druse Arabs, members of a Moslem sect. As a religious minority, the Druse often have been persecuted by other Moslems. But they always have gotten along with the Israelis, even serving in their armed forces.

The short, mustachioed Arab said he had to cooperate with the Israelis to care for his people properly. He said Israeli engineers repaired a war-damaged water main and provided the town with medical care.

He said if Israel and Syria reach a disengagement agreement, and the Syrians return to Harfa, he expects to be punished and his property confiscated.

18-year-olds may register by mail

Eighteen-year-old Fayette County men will be able to register for the draft by mail rather than appearing in person at a registrar's office, according to Paul A. Corey, director of the Ohio Selective Service system.

"Now young men will have three options for fulfilling the registration requirement," Corey said. "They can register at a local board office, with a volunteer registrar, or by mail."

Corey cautioned that the law requires all male persons in the United States (except certain non-immigrant aliens) to register with the Selective Service system with the 60-day period commencing 30 days prior to their 18th birthday.

Young men will now be able to pick up a form and complete it at home. After completing the form, he need only fold, seal and mail it. Poster-box displays containing the registration forms are placed in the Washington C.H., Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg post offices.

The nearest selective service office is located in the Federal Building, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus. The telephone number is 614-469-5722.

MTHS fares well in state judging meet

Two Miami Trace High School students fared well in the 51st annual Ohio Future Farmers of America judging contests which were held Saturday at Ohio State University, Columbus.

Scott Jenks captured first place honors in the livestock judging contest and received a $600 scholarship, while Sam Grooms finished second in the dairy products judging contest.

The Miami Trace livestock judging team took third place behind Seneca East High School and Greenfield McClain. Tom Taylor, of Greenfield, was second behind Jenks in the individual livestock judging contest.

A TOTAL of 3,000 high school vocational agriculture students participated in the event and 260 Ohio high schools were represented.

Judging activities included dairy, agricultural mechanics skills, meats, dairy products, poultry, wool, agronomy, general livestock, air-cooled engines, timber cruising and lumber grading.

Teams for agronomy, general livestock, wool, poultry, milk, meats and dairy cattle had three members each while agricultural mechanics was judged by individuals. Timber cruising and lumber grading were judged by two-man teams.

Other judging activities included an air-cooled engine contest at Eastland Vocational School held the same day where teams of two students each disassembled, repaired, adjusted and operated a group of engines that contained certain difficulties. The quality of work and time needed determined the winners.

Ohio man faces tax indictment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Nick Peters of Massillon has been indicted by a federal grand jury on eight counts of income tax evasion, charging that he failed to pay $86,000 in taxes for the years 1967 through 1970.

The indictment returned by the special jury investigating organized crime in the United States charges that much of the income came from a gambling business.

The indictment says Peters understated his income by $174,000 for the four years.

floriculture contest will be held May 18 at Ohio State University.

THE GENERAL management of all events was in charge of James E. Dougan, of the Ohio Department of Education, and Ralph E. Bennett, of Ohio State University, with John Watkins, area supervisor for vocational agriculture education of the Ohio Department of Education, coordinating the day's activities.

A special awards presentation breakfast will be held April 27 at the Rhodes Center on the Ohio State Fairground in conjunction with the Ohio FFA convention to present trophies and awards to the top achievers from the judging contests.

Braves top Reds, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Al Downing of Los Angeles must have only one thought tumbling around in his brain:
Getting past Bad Henry.
Tonight, in front of thousands of frenzied fans in Atlanta and millions more stationed in front of television sets across the nation, Downing and the Dodgers will have that goal in mind.
Henry Aaron was bad, indeed, on Sunday, striking out twice like any mortal baseball player and grounding out meekly in his only other at-bat.
Perhaps Clay Kirby's pitches were that good—or perhaps Aaron was just succumbing to the pressure of being forced to start for Atlanta Sunday against the Cincinnati Reds, a game won 5-3 by the Braves on Darrell Evans' three-run homer.
In Sunday's other National League games, the New York Mets pounded

Philadelphia 9-2. San Francisco belted Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles walloped San Diego 9-2. Snow kayoed the Chicago Cubs' doubleheader at Montreal and rain postponed Pittsburgh's game at St. Louis.
Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn issued the order that Aaron start on Sunday. Kuhn had "suggested" that Aaron start in Thursday's season opener and Aaron's first swing became homer No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record. He sat out Saturday and was going to do the same Sunday, just to make sure he didn't rob Atlanta fans of No. 715 as well.
Then Kuhn made his own ground rules, ordering Brave Manager Eddie Mathews to include Hank's name on his lineup card.
"I don't want to get involved," the soft-spoken slugger said.
Downing, commenting on all the ballyhoo which will accompany every Aaron appearance at the plate, said: "I don't think any pitcher can disregard the surroundings. I'll be aware of it. I'll probably even be thrilled by it. But I'm also aware of what I have to do."

Kirby, an off-season acquisition from San Diego making his debut with the Reds, felt exactly the same way Sunday.
"I just said to myself, 'Gotta get him out,'" and he did, avoiding the notoriety which would have made him "an instant star for doing something bad...I just happened to make good pitches to him." Then he added, almost ominously: "He gonna hit it—No. 715—and pretty quick."
Maybe too quick for Al Downing's taste.
Mets 9, Phils 2
Jerry Grote hit a tie-breaking single in a fourth-run eighth inning, then clubbed a three-run homer in a five-run ninth which enabled New York to bury Philadelphia.
But even more satisfying than the 16-hit assault against Jim Lonborg and three relievers was Tug McGraw's aboutface for the Mets.
On Saturday, in relief of Tom Seaver, he threw a game-winning home run ball to Mike Schmidt. On Sunday, replacing Jon Matlack, he struck out powerful Greg Luzinski, who represented the tying run.
Giants 8, Astros 4
San Francisco's sluggers flexed their muscles again. Gary Matthews hit a run-scoring triple and Dave Kingman followed with a three-run homer in the first inning and Bobby Bonds belted a two-run double in the third to power San Francisco past Houston.
But the Astros did a bit of swinging, too, forcing Jim Willoughby to struggle for the victory. He gave up four runs in five innings, two on Doug Rader's homer.
Dodgers 9, Padres 2
Los Angeles had muscle, too. And for the first time this season, the Dodgers had something else, too—a run scored against them.
Jim Wynn and Steve Garvey boomed homers and Ron Cey drove in three runs en route to demolishing the Padres.
Andy Messersmith tossed an eight-hitter but his bid for the Dodgers' third straight shutout ended in the sixth inning on Willie McCovey run-scoring single, snapping San Diego's 23-inning scoreless streak.

Henry Aaron back on home field

ATLANTA (AP) — Henry Aaron, taking in stride the controversy surrounding his quest for baseball immortality, returns to his home park tonight where playing orders from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn won't be needed.

"Yeah, that's definite I'm going to play tomorrow," the 40-year-old Atlanta Braves slugger said Sunday at the end of a stormy five-day stay in Cincinnati.

Oakland defeats Rangers 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Reggie Jackson won't be able to hit in Texas again until August 6.

But if the Oakland A's could play there all the time and add one Rangers' player to their lineup, Jackson says the American League West title would nearly be wrapped up by then.

The outspoken A's outfielder bid a fond farewell to Arlington Stadium with his second and third home runs of the season and seven runs batted in Oakland's 8-4 triumph over the Rangers. He finished the American League baseball season's opening series with seven hits in 13 at bats, eight runs batted in, two doubles and a .538 batting average.

Jackson could well have added to those impressive statistics had Ferguson Jenkins not one-hit the A's Saturday night.

"If we had him on our staff," said Jackson, "we could all go home by Aug. 15."

In other American League games Sunday, the California Angels and Chicago White Sox were tied 4-4 after 10 innings when snow postponed their contest; the New York Yankees bombed the Cleveland Indians 7-1; the Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader—the Orioles won the opener 5-1 and the Tigers took the second 8-4 in 10 innings.

The Boston Red Sox at Milwaukee Brewers game was rained out, as was the Minnesota Twins-Kansas City Royals contest.

"I've never had a start like this before—ever," said Jackson, the Most

Each bowling tournament chairman will have entry forms for eligible bowlers. If the first four winners are unable to attend, the 5th, 6th, 7th or 8th place winners may enter.

The following counties will be included in the Southeast Area Roll-off Tournament: Athens, Belmont, Coshocton, Fairfield, Fayette, Gallia, Guernsey, Hocking, Jackson, Licking, Monroe, Morgan, Muskingum, Perry, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto, and Washington.

The Roll-Off is ABC and WIBC sanctioned.

Carlene Bamert wins bowling tournament

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Carlene Bamert of Fairview Park, a 33-year-old mother of three girls, won the Ohio State Ladies Singles Match Game bowling championship Sunday.

Mrs. Bamert bowled a 235 in her final game, besting defending champ Nellie Glandon by 54 pins.

Dewey Yost leading in state bowling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dewey Yost of Carrollton retained first place Sunday in both singles-handicap and singles-actual after the sixth weekend of competition in the 70th annual Ohio State Bowling Tournament.

Angels 4, White Sox 4
Snow began falling during the eighth inning and led to the postponement of the California-Chicago game after 10 innings of play. The entire game will be replayed at a date to be determined, but all records of Sunday's contest will be counted toward the final statistics.

The Angels had a 4-1 lead after seven innings, but Chicago scored twice in the eighth and tied it in the ninth on Ken Henderson's double and Carlos May's single.

The White Sox might have won the game in the ninth, but a perfect throw from Joe Lahoud cut down Bill Melton at the plate.

Yankees 7, Indians 1
Pat Dobson pitched a five-hitter and Thurman Munson homered to spark the Yankees' triumph over the Indians. Dobson surrendered the Cleveland run before he got anyone out in the first inning, but allowed just three hits the rest of the way.

Roy White tripled and scored on an infield out, then Munson homered to put New York in front for good.

The Yanks added a run in the third, made it 4-1 in the fifth, and added three runs in the eighth—two on Jim Mason's single.

Orioles 5-4, Tigers 1-8
Ron Cash slapped the 10th inning which broke a 4-4 tie and Ed Brinkman added a two-run single later in the inning to help Detroit defeat the Orioles in the second game of the doubleheader.

Ross Grimsley, staked to a five-run lead in the first inning, held the Tigers scoreless until the ninth on the way to victory in the first game.

Little League tryouts to be held April 9, 10

Little League tryouts will be held April 9 and 10 starting at 6 p.m. at Wilson Field. Rain dates will be April 15 and 16.

On April 9 all boys of ages 10, 11, or 12 on or before July 31, 1974 must tryout for the Major Leagues. There will be no exceptions to the official Little League rules. If you do not tryout for the Majors at this time then you will go into the pool rather than stay on the same Minor League team you were on last year. The lone exception to this rule would be those boys returning to a Major League team. They need not tryout but should advise their manager of their intent to play.

On April 10 all boys who will be eight or nine years old on or before July 31, 1974, and who did not play Little League last year must tryout for the Minor Leagues at this time.

All boys are reminded to bring their applications.

Yanks bomb Cleveland

NEW YORK (AP) — As far as the New York Yankees are concerned, Yankee Stadium doesn't ever have to be rebuilt. The team has a two-year lease at Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets, and the players just might petition for a longer stay if things keep going their way.

"This is a nice, fair park and you can see the ball much better here than at Yankee Stadium," said Thurman Munson who hit a 400-foot home run in Sunday's 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"I like to hit here better than in Yankee Stadium," said Graig Nettles, who homered in Saturday's 6-1 opening day triumph. Neither ball would have been a homer in Yankee Stadium's famed Death Valley.

"I like to pitch here much better; I never liked to pitch in Yankee Stadium," said Pat Dobson, who limited Cleveland to five hits Sunday.

Nettles' home run Saturday sailed over the 371-foot mark in left center while Munson's Sunday shot departed in right-center between the 396 and 410 signs.

Des Moines gains Turner Cup finals

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Peta Mara and Bob Law each scored three-goal hat tricks to lead Des Moines to its fourth victory against no losses against Flint in their best-of-seven International Hockey League semifinals playoffs for the Turner Cup.

The deciding game was played in Des Moines Sunday night.

Des Moines now meets the winner of another playoff between Saginaw and Columbus to determine possession of the cup. Saginaw defeated Columbus in the only game played in their series.

"It was always nice to play in a fair park on the road," said Munson, "and this feels like a road park. If you hit the ball, it's gonna go. In Yankee Stadium, the background was bad because of the court house behind the centerfield bleachers and the shadows that used to sneak up on you around the fifth inning."

Celebrate the return of Spring.

We have a new Bug with a metallic-gold finish brighter than buttercups or the hearts of daisies.

It has a sunroof to let in the sunshine and the scent of a greening world.

There's a touch of the wild in its leatherette corduroy upholstery.

And a touch of the wind in its racing type wheels.

For the touch of your hands, there's a covered steering wheel and special sunburst shift knobs.

The Sun Bug — it's carefree as a May morning.

Lakers eliminated from playoffs

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

"I felt they knew the game was over early," said Milwaukee's Jon McGlocklin after the Bucks walloped Los Angeles 114-92 and eliminated the Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

It was a sad and sombre observation about the once-powerful Lakers, who only last season had reached the final series before losing to the New York Knicks in five games.

Their loss to the Bucks Sunday night at Milwaukee made them the first team to be ousted from the playoffs this season, losing the scheduled best-of-seven Western Conference series 4-1. The victory moved the Bucks into the West final against the winner of the Chicago-Detroit series, tied at 2-2 following the Pistons' 102-87 triumph

Sunday night.

In the other NBA playoff game Sunday, the New York Knicks edged the Capital Bullets 106-105 for a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The other East series, between the Boston Celtics and Buffalo Braves, tied at 2-2, resumes Tuesday night at Boston.

In the only ABA playoff game Sunday, the New York Nets trounced the Virginia Squires 116-88 for a 3-1 lead in their East Division semifinal.

The Kentucky Colonels, leading Carolina 3-0 in the other ABA East pairing, can clinch the series tonight with a victory over the beleaguered Cougars at Lexington, Ky. In the West, the Utah Stars, leading the Conquistadors 3-2, can advance to the final with a triumph at San Diego tonight, and the Indiana Pacers, with a 3-2 advantage over the Spurs, can end their series in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar the dominant performer with 21 points and 13 rebounds, and Ron Williams contributing 22 points, overwhelmed the Lakers for the second straight game with a devastating fast break and relentless team defense.

The Bucks took charge quickly, reeling off 17 consecutive points in the first quarter for a commanding 23-6 lead.

Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 22 points, but had only four in the first half when Milwaukee raced to a 51-28 lead.

Bob Charles wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bob Charles, once again a winner on the American tour, is busily rearranging his schedule.

"I'll have to change things round a bit," the slender, graying veteran from New Zealand said Sunday after his victory—his first since 1967 in the United States—in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I'll now make two more trips to the United States this year," he said. "I'll definitely play in 15 tournaments. I'll definitely play enough to keep my card."

He hadn't planned on that. He'd planned to surrender his playing privileges in the United States until his final-round three-under-par 68 stood off a half-dozen challenges and won him the $44,066 first prize in this tournament.

Charles, a 38-year-old former British Open champion who abandoned the American tour a year ago, finished with a 270 total, 14 under par on the 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

He finished one stroke ahead of Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino, tied at 271. Floyd, who lost a share of the lead with a bogey on the final hole, had a closing 67 and Trevino, gunning for a second consecutive triumph, once took a share of the lead with three straight birdies and finished with a 66.

Charles opened the final round with a one-stroke lead, but a bogey on the second hole opened the gates. Five other players shared the lead at one time or another on the sunny day before Charles solved it all in the run down the stretch before a massive gallery of 47,253.

The left-hander birdied the 17th after a beautiful iron shot left him a five-foot putt. He holed it to go 14 under and move past Trevino, who had finished at 13 under.

Lennie Waldo winner of Tri-County race

WEST CHESTER, Ohio (AP) — Lennie Waldo, of Columbus, holds the 30-lap speed record at Tri-County Speedway's half mile oval after winning the late model feature Sunday in 9:27.39.

Waldo, in his 1969 Camaro, took the lead from Don Gregory, also of Columbus, on the 19th lap. Gregory, in a 1972 Camaro finished second and John Vallo, Miamisburg, finished third in a 1973 Camaro.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Interest in Ovarian Cysts

Letters are beginning to pour in about ovarian cysts. It is interesting that as soon as a particular condition is reported involving a prominent person, interest associated with anxiety begins to mount.

Ovaries are two oval-shaped glands about the size of small plums. They lie in the pelvis, or lower abdomen, on each side of the uterus.

The function of the ovaries is to produce the ovum, or egg which, when fertilized by the male sperm, begins the process of pregnancy and the development of the child.

The ovaries also produce two important highly specialized hormones. One, the estrogenic hormone, is involved in the growth and maturation of the female. The second hormone, progesterone, in combination with estrogen, prepares the lining of the womb for the nourishment and growth of the fertilized egg.

Under normal circumstances, when the egg leaves the ovary each month, a small cyst remains. This quickly shrinks and disappears.

Occasionally, a large cyst develops and may grow to considerable size. Sometimes they cause no symptoms at all. At other times, ovarian cysts may become twisted and give symptoms that closely resemble an attack of appendicitis.

When a cyst of the ovary becomes complicated, surgery is necessary and often involves the removal of the ovary itself.

Only a few moments are necessary to revitalize the blood circulation by briskly walking around.

There is the possibility that some other underlying cause may be present in your case. This should be checked by your doctor.
